

"JUST A LITTLE MORE EFFORT from each of us will make Elksdom's 90th year its finest year," Grand Exalted Ruler H. L. Blackledge is telling a large and receptive group of Elks and their ladies at last night's banquet honoring Harrisburg lodge's 50th Anniversary. The Grand Exalted Ruler was greeted at a reception in the Elks Rathskeller at 6:30 last night, and was then principal speaker at the banquet at the country club, where his charm and

Grand Exalted Ruler Addresses Elks, Presents Pin to Webster

Dinner, Lodge and Initiation Will Be Held Tonight

Grand Exalted Ruler H. L. Blackledge came, saw, and captivated to get the Harrisburg Elks' 50th Anniversary celebration off to a rousing start last night at the lodge and the country club.

One hundred fifty local and visiting Elks and their ladies greeted the genial Grand Exalted Ruler at a reception in the Rathskeller of the Elks club, and then heard him speak on the history, principles, and reasons for existence of the Order of Elks at the banquet, held at the country club Mr. Blackledge, during his speech presented a 50-year membership pin to E. B. Webster of Harrisburg, sole surviving charter member of the lodge who is still an active member.

At the banquet, following a short welcoming address by Exalted Ruler John R. Small, State President Eugene Schnierle was introduced and acted as master of ceremonies for the remainder of the program. Schnierle introduced several visiting Elks dignitaries, including Grand Esteemed Leading Knight H. N. Feder of Belleville, Illinois Elks Association secretary and Newsette editor

Albert W. Arnold, Lincoln, and District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler John E. Giles, Marion. Exalted Rulers and members of out-of-town lodges were introduced as well as district and state committee chairmen and district officers, including South District vice-president Tarvey Mellor, Cairo, South District trustee Dave Evers, Salem, and state Youth Activities chairman Bruce Richmond, Murphysboro.

Schnierle then introduced the Grand Exalted Ruler, whose talk was extremely well received as he demonstrated his heralded ability as a fascinating speaker. At the conclusion of his talk, Exalted Ruler Small presented him with a gift as a memento of the occasion, following which the banquet was closed with the benediction by chaplain Wayne Dixon.

Mrs. Charlie Skaggs entertained the Grand Exalted Ruler and guests from Harrisburg lodge this morning with a breakfast at her home on West Poplar street. Besides Mr. Blackledge, those present were State President Schnierle, State Secretary Arnold, District Deputy Giles, Exalted Ruler Small, Esteemed Leading Knight Owen J. Hunsinger, Esquire Howard Logsdon, Chaplain Wayne Dixon, trustees Vern Joyner Jr. and H. E. Mitchell Jr., and Past State President Dr. H. J. Raley. Following the delicious breakfast, Dr. Raley recorded an interview with the Grand Exalted Ruler which will be heard over WEBQ this weekend.

Mr. Blackledge departed this morning for Fairfield and Flora, stopping for a luncheon at the Fairfield Elks, and a short visit with Flora lodge before boarding a train at Flora for Bedford, Va.

Tonight's feature of the four-day Golden Anniversary celebration is a free dinner and lodge, with initiation of the Golden Anniversary class of candidates. Dinner is at 6:30, with lodge at 8 p. m. Friday night's schedule call for a buffet and tea dance in honor of State President Schnierle.

Woman Bites Postman in Tussle

NEW YORK (UP)—Dog bites postman is a pretty common these days but postman Leroy Hunter made the news with a new twist. He got bitten on his appointed rounds by an indignant woman.

Hunter charged in felony court Wednesday that Mrs. Gloria Rohar, 21, put the bite on his wrist in a tussle for her relief check. He had maintained the regulations required he put the check in her mailbox.

Despite defense attorney Benjamin Schmier's contention that Mrs. Rohar's false charges were "so poorly constructed they couldn't bite anyone," Magistrate Neal P. Bottiglieri ordered her held in $500 bail for trial on third degree assault charges.

Death Takes Mrs. Harry J. Bryant; Funeral Saturday

Mrs. Myrtle Bryant, 71, widow of Harry J. Bryant, 107 East Gaskins street, Harrisburg, died in her home at 5:15 p. m. Wednesday. She had been seriously ill for about a month. She was a retired nurse and was born at Karbers Ridge, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Newton Milligan. She was married to Henry Booten, who died in 1919, and was later married to Harry J. Bryant who died in 1954. She is survived by her daughters, Mrs. Charles (Opal) Duncan, Harrisburg, and Mrs. Wendell (Inez) Boyd, Del Ray Beach, Fla.; her brother, Ila Milligan, Carrier Mills, and her sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Ledbetter, Harrisburg, Mrs. Maude Partain, Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Margaret Balthazar, Waukegan. There are three grand children surviving. She was preceded in death by her sister, Mrs. Cora Stuby.

The body will lie in state at the Gaskins funeral home until the funeral at 2 p. m. Saturday, which will be held in the chapel there. Rev. J. W. Duke will officiate and burial will be in the Sunset Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Bryant was a member of the North Willford Baptist church.

Sen. Douglas to Meet with SVDA Nov. 21 at H'bg

Delegations from Gallatin and Saline counties are being asked by the Saline Valley Development Association to attend a meeting at the courthouse in Harrisburg to discuss area problems with U. S. Senator Paul Douglas.

Senator Douglas will be in Harrisburg at 10 a. m. Thursday, Nov. 21, to meet people from counties in this area relative to possible federal legislation that might help the economy of southeastern Illinois.

Members of the SVDA, composed of persons living in Saline and Gallatin counties, will be present in Harrisburg and all others desiring to attend are urged to be present. The SVDA recently was organized to try to do something about the sagging economy.

The board of governors of the SVDA will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Nov. 19, in the Saline county courthouse to prepare for the visit of Senator Douglas.

Senator Douglas will be in Benton Nov. 20 and the SVDA is sending a group of delegates there to present the project of canalization of the Saline river to the senator.

Shawnee Hills Assn. to Elect Officers Monday Night at Golconda Meet

The second semi-annual meeting of the Shawnee Hills Recreation Association will be held Monday night at the VFW hall in Golconda with members of the Ladies Auxiliary serving the dinner at 6:30.

A nominating committee selected at last month's meeting is scheduled to present a slate of officers to serve during the ensuing year.

Glen Palmer, director of State Parks and Memorials is to be the principal speaker. Reservations for the dinner should be made with William Rottman of Golconda.

Seattle Homes Threatened by Sewer Cave-In

SEATTLE (UP)—Occupants of nine homes and a five-unit apartment moved out today when a huge sewer line cave-in began spreading and threatened to engulf homes in its path.

The original break in the 1600 block on Ravenna Boulevard occurred Tuesday and carved out a crater 60 feet wide and 40 feet deep that swallowed up a 25-foot chestnut tree and a light standard.

Additional cave-ins began shortly before midnight and by early today the pit was 200 feet long and 100 feet wide and had undermined parts of lawns on both sides of the boulevard.

The city engineer's office called out all available men in an effort to stop the spread of the cave-in.

Water backing up in drains caused evacuation of 10 buildings. Heavy rains in the past few days have softened the earth and increased the danger of further cave-ins, engineers said.

City Receives $5,867 Sales Tax

Harrisburg's city sales tax for August business transactions is $5,867.99, the Illinois Department of Revenue revealed today.

Raleigh Baptist Designated Rural Church of Year; Pastor Honored

The Raleigh Baptist church and its pastor, the Rev. C. E. Russell, received state achievement awards in a special ceremony at the Southern Baptist State convention, which was held at the First Baptist church at Pinckneyville, on Nov. 5, 6, 7.

The Raleigh Baptist church was designated state "Rural Church of Year" and its pastor, Rev. Russell, was named state "Rural Pastor of the Year."

The awards were presented by E. H. Moore, Secretary of Missions, and Walter H. Milhfield, Rural and Village Missionary for the Illinois Association. The Raleigh church received the district association award certificate a month ago at the annual meeting of the Saline Association.

District Associations represented in the state contest were from Indiana and Illinois. Rural churches are defined by the state group as those serving communities with population of 2500 or less.

Three phases of achievements on which the contest was based were "better church projects," "better community projects," and "better world projects." A chairman was selected for each project and work was begun in September 1956. Huston Heathman was general chairman of the better church project. Accomplishments in this field included attaining "Advanced Standard Sunday School," the only one in the State of Illinois, and one of the only two in the entire Southern Baptist Convention. Mission gifts were increased from $1,388.09 for 1956 to $3,817.82 for 1957, a gain of $1,649.11 for 1957.

Better community projects phase was headed by Frank Cantrell. Accomplishments included church members being leaders of 4-H boys and girls. Members of church serving on town board. Chairman of building committee who led in the building of a new town hall in Raleigh is one of the church trustees.

Mrs. Pauline Farmer was in charge of the "better world projects" which included increase of Mission gifts to Foreign, Christian Education, Polio, Cancer, Heart, Salvation Army and Red Cross groups. The W. M. U. Brotherhood and W. C. T. U. from Raleigh church has conducted services in nursing homes, hospitals and contributed to disabled veterans.

The Raleigh church's membership totals 381. The Sunday school enrollment of 330 exceeds that of the 250 village population.

Ceiling Plans Scrapped

Military Budget Will Boost Defense Spending About Billion

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Eisenhower administration has tentatively decided to boost defense spending about one billion dollars next year, it appeared today.

A highly placed official said the military budget still is being drawn up. But he made it clear the administration has scrapped its plans for a 38-billion dollar ceiling on defense spending for the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

Indications were the administration will ask Congress for about 39 billion dollars in actual defense appropriations next year — also an increase of one billion dollars above previous plans. This would be one billion dollars more than requested last year and three billion more than Congress approved.

The Defense Department is planning to go ahead with plans to cut the size of the armed forces to 2,600,000 men by next July 1 and reduce civilian employment by 70,000. Some programs deemed "obsolete" also may be cut back to save money for costlier weapons and military pay raises. President Eisenhower said Wednesday night "every dime possible" will be saved in military programs to meet the "very considerable increase" in other defense spending needed to counter the Russian threat to U. S. security.

There were these other developments in the defense field:

—The Pentagon's science director disclosed the Defense Department may double spending on basic research needed to assure development of "novel weapons of war in years to come."

—S. Fred Singer, noted astrophysicist connected with government rocketry, said in Washington the United States is "on a par or perhaps even a little ahead of the Russians" in missile development.

Area Educators Appear Before School Commission

Southern Illinois educators appeared before an Illinois School Problems commission hearing Wednesday at Marion Junior high school.

Present from Harrisburg were C. R. Gardner, county superintendent of schools; Russell Malan city schools superintendent; and Fred Armistead, principal of Harrisburg Junior high school.

The commission, headed by Rep. Charles W. Clabaugh of Champaign, listened to school problems as presented by the educators, after which there was a general discussion.

Horace Brown, Gallatin county superintendent of schools, spoke on "Deterrents to School Reorganization in Southern Illinois," giving results of a survey he had made by contacting county school superintendents in 31 southern Illinois counties.

Sees Sacrifice Of Less Essential Gov't Services

President Says Critical Need Is For More Scientists

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower threw an explosive challenge to Congress today with his warning to Americans they must pay a "very considerable" price to neutralize Russia's missile threat including sacrifice of less essential government services.

The President returned to the capital early today from Oklahoma City where he told the nation in a second "chins up" radio and television address national security must always be "first of all firsts."

To achieve "adequate security" the President said more money must be poured into maintenance of the Strategic Air Command at peak nuclear-retaliatory strength, and into the nation's aerial defense system. He said the U. S. space program will involve additional expense and more must be spent on basic research and producing more scientists.

Although Eisenhower gave no idea of the exact additional cost involved, it appeared next year's defense spending budget may be hiked about one billion dollars to 39 billion. More discussion of this was expected during this morning's National Security Council meeting.

Curtail Other Spending
The big question he left hanging was where the money will come from. He made no mention of a tax increase.

He said it must come from large savings achieved "only through cutting out or deferring entire categories of activity."

Presumably the President will make recommendations to Congress on what should be junked. Possible targets which would stir up a stiff fight if curtailed include segments of the huge agriculture program, public works, housing and slum clearance and veterans benefits.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) cautioned against chopping domestic programs which produce "new wealth and new income." He disagreed with the President's statement that "most emphatical-

Knight's Decision

Editorial — BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California is above all things a practical politician. His withdrawal from the 1958 governorship race is a response to the hard realities he sees in his state.

To begin, the governor has evidently been under tremendous pressure from friends and party leaders to avoid a direct Republican primary clash next June with Sen. William F. Knowland, who is retiring from the Senate to seek the governor's chair.

There is sufficient strength on each side to have assured that such a head-on meeting would have been rough. Party men argued, with good point, that damage to the Republican cause might be great.

With the popular Democratic Attorney General Edmund (Pat) Brown in the lists against the winner, the risk of this intramural warfare looked too much to take.

Knight had other considerations. Opinion samplings have suggested Knowland would beat him in a primary fight. A politician led by pride to battle against stiff handicaps can find defeat a poor balm for his soul.

The governor has often said he wanted to stay where he is rather than run for the Senate. But to any normal politician, the prospect of six years in the Senate is better than a return to private law practice. Knight may have measured the outlook in just that way.

If the poll indications were not enough, there was the fact that Vice President Nixon, who commands a powerful supporting group in southern California, was planning to put his weight behind Knowland.

California is not a machine politics state. A governor there does not automatically command a huge organization he can put to work in his behalf. Hence the expected Nixon opposition was a serious factor.

In the end, it must be said Knight's decision occasioned no surprise. Politicians' first thoughts often are belligerent, suggesting "no quarter." But when the test nears, they seek ways to avoid the scrap that can tear the party apart. Especially since their own political necks are involved.

The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Assistant President Sherman Adams Is Expected To Bow Out; Sec Chairman Balks At Telling Congress About Sherman Adams; He Won't Even Loan Steno To Congressional Probe.

WASHINGTON. — Don't be surprised if still another of the famed "Eisenhower team" steps out of harness in the not too distant future. He is "Assistant President" Sherman Adams, one of the most powerful men in Washington.

Adams is powerful because of Eisenhower absenteeism and delegation of authority. As a result, relations with Congress, contacts with every agency of government except the State Department operate through Adams.

Every cabinet member except John Foster Dulles is asked to stop in Adams' office after a talk with the President and dictate a memo regarding the points he took up with Ike and what was agreed to. For, in the long run, it's Adams who carries out any commitments made by the President—or in some cases reverses presidential commitments.

The top assistant to any president is important, but never in the years I have covered Washington has any man been given such leeway in the White House as the dry, efficient, square-jawed ex-governor of New Hampshire.

However, Adams is now being made the scapegoat for missile-satellite failures, has rubbed Vice President Nixon the wrong way, and has pulled wires wholesale in the independent agencies. If the Moulder watchdog committee ever gets the files from these commissions, supposed to be quasi-judicial, independent agencies, it will be seen that, instead of answering the will of the people, they have been answering the will of Sherman Adams.

So, along with other members of the palace guard dominating the Washington scene for five years, the tight-lipped, efficient, square-jawed assistant president is expected to leave Washington quietly for the pine-forested hills of New Hampshire.

Note—It is rumored around the White House that Alger Chapman, a Dewey partner, will replace Adams. When contacted by this column, Chapman said no one around the White House had talked to him.

WHITE HOUSE SECRETS

Edward N. Gadsby, the Boston lawyer who now heads the Securities and Exchange Commission, doesn't like to be investigated by Congress. His job is to investigate Wall Street, to see whether it's on the up-and-up. But he just doesn't like having Congress investigate him to see whether his commission's on the up-and-up.

When the Moulder committee tried to ascertain whether Secommissioners had received any favors from corporations they are supposed to regulate, Chairman Gadsby really reared back on his Back Bay dignity.

Joe Conlon, investigator for the Moulder watchdog committee, had previously asked Secommissioners for a list of all correspondence between the SEC and the White House and with members of Congress.

He was looking, among other things, for the hand that rocks the SEC cradle—Sherman Adams. For in Washington it's said: "The Adams hand that rocks the cradle is mightier than the Eisenhower hand that wields the sword."

"May I ask you, sir, whether you prepared such a list?" Conlon asked.

"No," shrugged Gadsby.

"Do you intend to prepare such a list?" asked Conlon.

"No," replied Gadsby.

Noticing a stenographer busily taking notes, Conlon demanded: "Is there a transcript of this meeting being taken?"

Gadsby replied "No," and the stenographer abruptly stopped writing.

"If there is," continued Conlon, "I would like a copy of the remarks made."

"There is no stenographer," repeated the SEC boss.

"Then may we have a stenographer?" suggested Conlon. "I would like a stenographer."

"We don't provide that sort of thing," barked Gadsby.

"With an appropriation of $300,000 I think they can provide their own stenographer," broke in SEC counsel Dan McCauley.

"Perhaps we should adjourn until I can get a stenographer, and we can meet tomorrow," offered Conlon.

"I don't know whether the commission will be willing to meet you tomorrow," snorted Gadsby. "The commission is not going to submit to an inquisition."

STILL NO STENO

The House investigator went on with his questioning. Soon the stenographer started "writing again."

"Sir," interrupted Conlon impatiently, "are notes being taken of this meeting?"

Gadsby signaled to the girl to stop writing.

"No," he replied again.

Finally, Conlon requested permission to examine the commissioners' official files.

"You're not going to see the letters to my wife!" bristled Gadsby.

"I don't want to see the letters to your wife," patiently explained the investigator. "I would like to see your correspondence to the executive and Congress relating to cases."

"You're not going to see my files!" repeated the SEC chairman. "I'm not going to show you anything!"

"Well, sir, what in your statutes gives you more right to withhold information than the CAB?" Conlon inquired.

"I'm not going to answer that!" snapped Gadsby. That ended the meeting.

Note: Gadsby apparently figured he could get away with defying the committee because of his close friendship with the committee's senior Republican, Congressman John Heselton of Massachusetts. The two were roommates at Amherst.

Burning Autumn Leaves a Problem

CHICAGO — The aroma of burning autumn leaves may be pleasant, but it just adds to the air pollution problem.

This unromantic view comes from Samuel Padner, an Illinois Institute of Technology chemical engineer. But if you must burn leaves, Padner suggests the following ways to harness the added dust fall:

Burn only dry leaves. They give off less smoke.

Light the leaf pile near the top and shield it from the wind. This will make for slow, steady burning.

Don't rake leaves onto a burning pile. This smothers the flames. A heavy smudge and bad odor is the result.

Take plenty of time to tend your fire. Make sure the fire doesn't spread to dry lawns and bushes.

Thunder Doesn't Sour Milk

Food Superstitions Disputed

By ALFRED LEECH
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO — Thunder won't really cause milk to sour, and the mere presence of a red-haired woman near a cheese vat won't hurt the cheese.

These and other food superstitions were disputed by Colonel Charles S. Lawrence, executive secretary of the Institute of Food Technologists.

"There's absolutely no rhyme or reason to some of these superstitions," Lawrence said, "but people still hold to them."

The thunder-milk idea apparently is related to the fact that warm, humid weather does increase the lactic bacteria in the air, he said, and this in turn will cause milk to sour if it is left in the open.

"But it's the lactic bacteria, not the thunder," Lawrence said.

The cheese superstition still is prevalent in some sections of the South and along the Atlantic Seaboard, he said. According to the belief, if a red-haired woman tends the cheese vat, the curd will be "like loose sand and the cheese will be unfit to eat."

Along the coast of the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida and Texas, Lawrence said, many people believe that eating crabs and ice cream at the same meal is "about like taking strychnine."

In New England there is a simi-

While corn is still the king of Illinois crops, the newest member of the royal family, the soybean, is coming on with a rush. A recent bulletin issued by the State-Federal Crop Reporting Service discloses that Illinois soybean acreage topped the five million mark this year for the first time.

Illinois leads the nation in production and sales—with 30 per cent of the national soybean market. The report reveals that the state's soybean acreage has more than doubled since 1941, compared to only an 11 per cent upswing in corn acreage. Corn, of course, still maintains a big lead. It is grown on 85 per cent of Illinois farms, accounting for some 8 1/4 million acres valued at more than $800 million in 1956.

lar superstition about milk and shell fish of any kind.

"It probably got started because the fishermen felt that dairy foods were offering too much competition," Lawrence said.

"It's obviously ridiculous because many recipes call for cooking fish dishes in milk."

Bismarck, the iron chancellor of Germany, believed in a superstition that killed him. He thought that meat and brandy would cure the gout, despite the fact that meat is high in proteins and gout usually is caused by an overabundance of protein in the diet.

"Bismarck used to eat a pound and a half of sausage and drink a bottle of brandy," Lawrence said. "Then his aching toes didn't ache. 'He was probably so soused he felt no pain.'"

At the time of the First World War, only a handful of Illinois farmers were growing soybeans—a meager one thousand acres. Today soybeans are grown on more than half of the state's farms and crops were worth more than $300 million last year. According to the Illinois Department of Agriculture, only a serious disease or insect epidemic will halt the phenomenal expansion.

Among the products made from soybean oil are shortening, salad oil, margarine, mayonnaise, cooking and drying oils, and a host of other products. Soybean meal is used in the manufacture of many animal feeds and foods for human consumption.

Sahara Establishes Scholarship Through Mining Institute

A four-year scholarship in mining engineering has been established at the University of Illinois through the Illinois Mining Institute by the Sahara Coal Co., Pres. David D. Henry of the university announced today.

The scholarship will pay $500 a year, and the recipient will be selected by the university's scholarship committee. Preference in awarding the scholarship will be given, in order, to a son or relative of a Sahara Coal Co. employee, a resident of Saline county, a resident of Illinois, and a resident of any state in the Union.

The novel has flourished in America since the growth of the lending library and the emancipation of women according to a study recently published by the University of California Press.

IN 58 DAYS A '58 PLYMOUTH RAN 58,000 MILES—EQUAL TO

MORE THAN TWICE AROUND THE WORLD

AND IT DROVE EVERY INCH OF THE WAY!

We knew this car was tough.

We designed it that way.

That's why we weren't afraid to give Plymouth the toughest, true test run of all time... with all America as the "track."

We didn't coddle this Plymouth. Didn't crate it and ship it carefully from place to place. Instead, we aimed it out of Los Angeles one misty morning and sent it through a course that ran 58,000 miles through 37 states.

The time limit? Only 58 days.

A thousand miles a day!

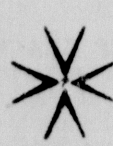

The equivalent of 6 years' driving crammed into little more than 3 weeks!

Three times this car crossed the Rockies. Three times it wound its way across the country... passing through more than 1200 cities and towns. Whipping over turnpikes... creeping through city traffic... arrowing down super-highways... feeling its way through rutted detours. At the end, it still looked, ran and rode like new.

This is what lasting value really means. The ability to take everything that American roads and weather can dish out—and come up grinning. Why don't you give Plymouth a test drive yourself—today? You'll see what we mean.

That's the Plymouth "track"... and just look at that route! Every possible road and weather condition. Plymouth ran every inch of that murderous route 3 times in just 58 days. What greater proof of lasting, built-in stamina!

Star of the Forward Look... Plymouth ahead for keeps!

Philathea Class of McKinley Avenue Baptist Church Meets

The Philathea Sunday school class of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church, held a potluck meeting at 6 p. m. Tuesday in the church. The Thanksgiving theme was carried out.

Mrs. Ernestine Brinkley installed new officers as follows: Mrs. Roy Chambers, president; Mrs. Harlan Seets, vice-president; Mrs. Clifford Burklow, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Harold Chaney and Mrs. Mable English, secretaries. The next meeting will be a Christ mas party in the home of Mrs. Roy Chambers on Dec. 10.

In the installation service, Mrs. Brinkley read from John 20:21, Matthew 28:19-20 and Acts 1:1-8 for the scriptures on which her installation service was based.

Mrs. Clint Norman was a visitor at this meeting.

Mrs. James Ford Hostess To T.E.L. Sunday School Class

The T.E.L. Sunday school class of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church met in the home of Mrs. Charles Ford, 216 West Park street, Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ralph Burroughs presided and the meeting opened with a hymn. Mrs. Curt Gasaway led in the prayer. Mrs. Earl Hicks read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved. Mrs. Paul Hilliard gave the devotion, reading from Psalm 46. The group planned a Thanksgiving basket to be given to a needy family, and an offering was taken for the Baptist orphanage at Carmi, to be used for the children at Christmas.

Mrs. Hicks was in charge of the recreation period and Mrs. Herbert Clark helped with the refreshments of banana nut cake with whipped cream, coffee and orange drink.

Others attending were: Mrs. George Langford, Mrs. Henry Short, Mrs. Webb Yarbrough, Mrs. Seth Rister, Mrs. Carvel Herron, and the guest, Mrs. Russell McElmurry. The meeting was closed with prayer.

The Christmas social meeting will be held Dec. 10 in the home of Mrs. Curt Gasaway.

Miss Linda Rude accompanied her mother, Mrs. Carl Rude, and Mrs. J. V. Capel to Selfridge Air Force Base, Michigan, Saturday, to visit Lt. and Mrs. Joseph Alard Rude and son, Carl William Rude. Miss Rude returned to Harrisburg by plane Monday and was met in Evansville, Ind., by her father. Mrs. Rude and Mrs. Capel returned to Harrisburg Tuesday.

Harlon Lee Seats Married In Long Beach, California

Miss Nancy Lou Huston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Huston, Early, Iowa, and Harlon Lee Seats, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlon B. Seats, Harrisburg, were married at 2 o'clock Sept. 14, in the chapel of the First Baptist church in Long Beach, Calif. The Rev. Frank Kepner performed the wedding ceremony before an altar decorated with large candelabras and vases of pink and white carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a wedding gown of blue lace fashioned with a scalloped neckline and fitted bodice, with a gathered bustle on the waltz length bouffant skirt. A white sequin pillbox hat secured her veil of illusion. Her strand of pearls was a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Lois Johnson, Long Beach, Calif., friend of the bride, served as her bridesmaid.

Jaimie Sarria, Bogota, Colombia, friend of the bridegroom, acted as his best man.

Following the marriage ceremony there was a dinner in the Hawaiian restaurant of Long Beach for the wedding party.

The bride attended Iowa State college, the University of Arizona and received her B. E. degree from Buena Vista college of Storm Lake, Iowa. She taught second grade in the elementary school of Yuma, Calif., and is now teaching third grade in the Magnolia school district of Anaheim, Calif.

Mr. Seats was graduated from HTHS and was an all-star in football. He received his B. S. degree from SIU and was elected to Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. Before serving his two years in the U. S. Navy, he was employed by G. M. A. C. at Harrisburg. He was discharged from the Navy in August of this year. He is now employed by the Beckman Electronics Corp. in Anaheim.

Mr. and Mrs. Seats are at home to their friends at 111 West Broadway, Apt. 6, Anaheim, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rush, their grandson, Bobby Cosby, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Rush, all of Metropolis visited Mrs. Claude L. Rew, 412 South Main street, Harrisburg, Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Oscar Rush is the sister of the late Claude L. Rew.

Michigan farmers receive most of their income from dairy products.

Alonzo Reiner, RFD 3, Harrisburg, who has been in Deaconess hospital in Evansville, Ind., for the past weeks, had expected to be home the first of this week, but underwent additional surgery on Monday and will be in the hospital for at least another week. His room number is 369.

Calendar Of Meetings

The Royal Daughters Sunday school class of the Social Brethren church has postponed its social meeting scheduled for Thursday and the meeting will be held at 7 p. m. Nov. 21.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wickham of Knoxville, Tenn., are parents of a boy born in a Knoxville hospital Tuesday. The baby has been named Houston Lee and weighed eight pounds, eight ounces at birth. The mother of the child is the former Miss Louise Dabney, daughter of Mrs. Ollie Dabney, formerly of Harrisburg and now living in Knoxville, and the late Con Dabney. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Corby Wickham of Harrisburg.

HTHS Students to Present Panel Over WSIL Tonight

The Harrisburg Township high school will present a student panel over Television Station WSIL tonight in observance of American Education Week.

The panel will carry out the theme of "A report on your high school." School authorities indicate that where most patrons are familiar with the extra-curricular activities of the school quite often they are not informed as to its curricular offerings—and how the school is meeting the educational needs of the high school boys and girls of this area.

Students who will appear on the panel are Eddie Quade, Carolyn Neff, Roger Wiley, Kendall McDonald, Michael Foster, Jane Capel, Janet Tanner, Mary Schwartz, Janet Hall, Bennie Lane and Mickey Stone. Eltis Henson, H. T. H. S. principal, will serve as moderator.

Mr. Henson also pointed out today that all patrons are invited to visit the school Monday, Nov. 18, at 7 p. m. when open house will be observed.

JUNIOR PLAY SCENE—Sherry Gelsosky, Joe Gaul, Dewayne Martin and Connie Brown as they appear in a scene from "The Little Dog Laughed" which will be presented by the Junior class of HTHS Friday evening.

HTHS Juniors to Present Play 'The Little Dog Laughed'

The HTHS Junior play, "The Little Dog Laughed," will be presented in Bonnell gymnasium at 8:15 p. m. Friday. This play, by Vera and Ken Trapley, gives a humorous picture of what can happen when a college sophomore majoring in psychology decides to psychoanalyze and improve her family. There are hilarious situations and—well, come and see for yourself.

The cast for "The Little Dog Laughed" is as follows: Psychology major, Laurie Huntington, played by Sherry Gelsosky; Sidney Huntington, by Jim Tanner; Martha Huntington, Kay Mitchell; Wally Huntington, Dewayne Martin; Miss "Gus", Sharon Evans; Joan Wood, Connie Brown; Ted Wood, David Nelson; Lillian Wood, Eva Duke; Mark Bradford, Joe Gaul; Horatio P. Honeywell, Edward Winters; Amelia Dennis, Ann Goebel; Carolyn Blakesly, Roberta Steinborn; Grace Shoenbeck, Wilma Hamby; Walola Breckenridge, Joan Upchurch and Therese Brown, Janet Hall.

The Charlemont Inn in Charlemont, Mass., built in 1787 and since restored was a principal overnight stop for travelers between Boston and Albany, N. Y.

Plastic Bag in Tree Top Is from Scientific Project

Early Tuesday morning Virgil Tarlton, RFD 3, Harrisburg, saw an unusual looking object high in a tree on his farm and decided to investigate.

He decided it to be a plastic-type bag and chopped the tree down.

Inside the bag he found an envelope with the words "To Whom It May Concern" and inside the envelope was a paper with the following—"Notice—If found, please inform Paducah Junior College of the location where found. This is a scientific project conducted by three (3) chemistry and aeronautics students. Please inform where found by sending information to the Professor of Aeronautics and Wind Control, Paducah Junior College, 707 Broadway, Paducah, Kentucky. Sincerely Thanks, Signed, The Future Aeronautical Engineers of America." There were seven signatures.

Mr. Tarlton, who resides near Rudement, said the plastic bag was in the top of a 30-foot tree and he decided it would be much easier to chop the tree than to attempt to climb it.

He brought the letter to The Daily Register office Tuesday about noon before mailing it to the Paducah Junior College.

Two Halliburton Executives to Discuss Drill Stem Tests at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Two executives of the Halliburton Oil Cementing Co. will discuss drill stem testing at a meeting with Southern Illinois University petroleum geology students here Friday, Nov. 15.

Carl Ashley, superintendent of Halliburton's Crossville Division, and Don Gunte, supervisor of drill stem testers, will also demonstrate a miniature drill stem testing tool at the 10 a. m. session with students in Southern's new School of Agriculture building.

Both men are residents of Carmi. They were invited to the University by "Ran" Bell, former Carmi geologist now on the SIU staff. Bell said the meeting would be open to anyone interested.

here's how easy it is to dial a STATION-TO-STATION telephone call from HARRISBURG, ELDORADO, CARRIER MILLS, SHAWNEETOWN and STONEFORT

for example: you are calling Kansas City, Missouri

GRand 2-1683

Your new telephone directory lists the area code for Kansas City, Missouri as 816.

1. DIAL 150 (one-five-zero) . . . You will always dial this number when using Direct Distance Dialing.

2. DIAL 816 . . . This area code was assigned to that part of Missouri in which Kansas City, Missouri is located.

3. DIAL GR 2-1683 . . . The number you are calling.

After you have completed dialing, the operator will ask you for YOUR number. Give YOUR telephone number to the operator and your call will then be completed automatically.

FOR CALLS TO NEARBY POINTS . . . Your new telephone directory shows that most of southern Illinois is in the 618 area. It is not necessary to dial the 618 code for station-to-station calls within the 618 area.

IF YOU DON'T KNOW THE TELEPHONE NUMBER . . . Dial "OPERATOR" (zero)

RIDGWAY FHA HONORED THIRD YEAR IN ROW—For the third consecutive year the Ridgway Future Homemakers chapter has received the plaque awarded by the Illinois Bankers Association in recognition of being selected the most outstanding chapter in the section. There are eight counties and 23 chapters in this section.

In making the presentation at the school Wednesday morning, Mr. Law said "The FHA chapter of the Ridgway high school has again lived up to its motto, which is 'Toward New Horizons,' and expresses the purpose of the organization—'Learning to live better today in order that our lives and those of our family may be better tomorrow'."

Joliet Man Heads Illinois School Building Group

SPRINGFIELD — John Moore, 44, a Joliet school official, has been named executive director of the Illinois School Building Commission, effective Friday. He is the superintendent of public instruction announced here.

Moore is building coordinator for Joliet Elementary District 86, and has resigned, also effective Friday, to take the new post. He was appointed by the five-man commission, which is headed by George P. Lloyd, also of Joliet.

The school commission was set up to administer a 10-million-dollar revolving fund authorized by the 1957 Legislature to help elementary school districts which have exhausted their bonding power to build necessary schools.

The schools will be constructed with commission funds and the state reimbursed over a 20-year period with the payment of annual rentals. The schools ultimately will become the property of the local districts after the building and maintenance costs are paid off.

The superintendent's office reported 69 districts thus far have inquired about possible construction programs, and 38 formal applications filed, divided about evenly between downstate and Cook County.

Local districts must obtain referendum approval of the building proposal, and authorization of a special tax to pay off the building costs.

Revenue Service To Question Expense Account

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Internal Revenue Service said today a new expense account question on income tax forms is a warning to all taxpayers—fat cats and thin.

It amounts to this: The government wants without fail detailed information on all expense accounts.

The Internal Revenue disclosed last week it has inserted the expense account item—line 6A—in the 1957 personal income tax planks—the ones that are due by next April 15.

It calls for stating on the front of the blank the size of any taxpayer's expense account—the amount if any he received from his employer for such diverse items as taxi fares and convention trips. A full itemized explanation must be attached as a separate sheet.

Earlier Forms Confusing

Confusion resulted from early interpretations. Whom does line 6A effect? Is the government opening an attack on expense accounts—considered by some as an escape loophole from high income taxes? Here, from top revenue officials, is the meaning of 6A:

—Internal Revenue is tightening its standing regulation that expense accounts must be declared.

—Line 6A is aimed primarily at taxpayers with bulgingly-suspicious expense accounts. But it also is aimed at the little guy with a $200 annual expense account that he never bothered to report.

—Everyone receiving an expense account, no matter how small, will have to keep a record of it and report it as they should have in the past.

Revenue officials said failure of many taxpayers to comply with standing regulations on expense accounts brought on line 6A.

Instructions for old tax forms said: Expense accounts receipts from employers should be added to wages; legitimate expenses for which the payments were made should be subtracted from wages; and the result should be entered as the taxpayer's income.

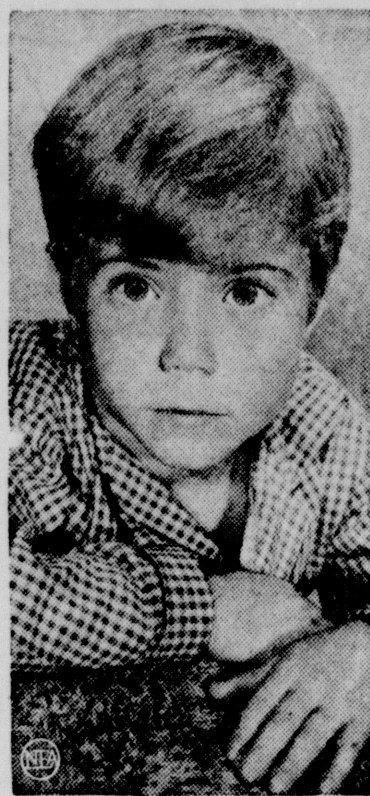

Some Didn't Bother

Revenue officials said many taxpayers whose receipts and allowable expenses cancelled each other simply skipped the whole thing.

Other taxpayers omitted the "detailed statements" or submitted sketchy ones.

Now at line 6A there is a blank space for entering allowable expenses. A "detailed explanation" must be attached. Money from expense accounts as usual is to be added to wages.

They said the average taxpayer

ON STAR LADDER—Wistful-eyed, seven-year-old Jon Provost is seen by Hollywood observers as a fast-rising TV star. A veteran of 12 motion picture bit roles, he is in 13 "Lassie" telefilms to be seen this fall, and by mid-season he will replace "aging" Tommy Rettig, 16, as Lassie's playmate-owner.

Proposes Christmas Of Satellite Coupled With Program of Aid

WASHINGTON — A noted rocket scientist proposed today that the American people launch a glowing satellite during the Christmas season as a "symbol of peace and good will."

The scientist, Dr. S. Fred Singer of the University of Maryland, made the proposal at a Rotary Club lunch here.

Singer said the Christmas satellite launching should be coupled with the launching of a new program of aid to underprivileged people all over the world.

Singer proposed that the American people contribute the money the satellite project would cost. He said a satellite, equipped to glow in the dark so all could see it, would cost no more than $2,000, and a rocket to launch it could be bought from the government for one million dollars.

has nothing to worry about, it is the man with the yacht for his personal use on his expense account that has to do the worrying.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

White stripes are often painted on the edges of steps in public buildings. These warning lines aid people in seeing each individual step and help to avoid stumbling downstairs. Many a person has been injured when he has not seen the last step, or the darkened step which looked so much like another step.

Such simple aids are developed at great expense in our country where we are safety conscious. Papers and magazines devote much space to the need of following codes of safe practices.

Yet in the spiritual realm we stumble through many darkened byways without a glance toward heaven. We commit errors and sins without so much as a regret. We do little to help others to avoid the pitfalls into which we have fallen. "Remember, the soul you're out to save may be your own."

Cub Pack 23 Holds Meeting

Cub Scout Pack 23, sponsored by the First Presbyterian church, had its regular monthly meeting Monday, Nov. 3, in the lower rooms of the First Presbyterian church. Den 1 presented the colors and gave a demonstration on folding the flag. Awards were then presented to the Cub Scouts for their advancement, after which Den 2 gave the Cub Scout promise, the law of the pack and the Cub Scout motto. The health achievement was presented by Den 5. A discussion on the achievement program of Cub Scouting was led by Mrs. Jerry Klaviva.

Plans were made for the December pack meeting, which is to be a Christmas party with the whole pack furnishing a food basket to some needy family. Games were enjoyed by the Cub Scouts to close the meeting.

If any boy is interested in being a Cub Scout, or if any adult would like to work with the Cub Scout program, please call the First Presbyterian church.

Welcome Complaint

HARPER WOODS, Mich.—(UP)—During recent rains when he got 200 calls from taxpayers complaining about flooded basements, City Manager Robert J. McNutt got one call which brightened the day. It was from a home owner complaining about dust blowing in the alley behind his house on dry summer days.

Rains Hamper Salvage of Cars

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill. (UP) — Rains hampered salvage operators who are recovering 76 new Plymouth automobiles and a barge that sank near here.

Damage to the cars and the barge of the Commercial Barge Lines of Evansville, Ind., has been estimated at nearly $100,000 by a company spokesman.

The barge, one of three carrying 200 new cars from Evansville to Memphis, Tenn., sank late Friday in 14 feet of water in the Ohio River about five miles south of Shawneetown. There were no injuries.

The other two barges continued to Memphis with their cargo of cars and salvage operations with 15 men, including two divers, other barges and a huge crane began almost immediately.

The spokesman said it will take another week to recover the remaining cars and lift the barge unless the river rises.

Practical Nursing School Class Elects Officers

The second class of the Harrisburg School for Practical Nurses has met and organized for the school year, electing Mrs. Ila Ballard of McLeansboro as president.

Other officers of the class are Mrs. Ella Mae Thompson, Harrisburg, vice president; Mrs. Gladys O'Connor, Harrisburg, secretary; Mrs. Sybil Winters, Harrisburg, reporter.

The members of the class recently made two field trips, visiting the Smith Packing Company and Pankey's Bakery, both of Harrisburg.

They were taken through both companies and given first hand demonstrations of the various operations.

Pankey's presented the group with a large cake, beautifully decorated in keeping with the class training, which later was served during a nutrition instruction period. Accompanying the students on the trips were Mrs. Shirley Oshel, R. N., coordinator of nurses, and Mrs. Marshall Cochran, HTHS home economics instructor and nutrition instructor for the nursing classes.

Mrs. Ray Altire has joined the faculty for the teaching of first aid, it has been announced.

Pineau to Fly To U. S. On Crisis Over Tunisian Arms

PARIS (UP) — Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said today he would fly to Washington Friday to try to straighten out a crisis in Franco-American relations over U. S. arms to Tunisia.

Pineau warned that the supply of American arms to the one-time French protectorate would amount to a breach of Atlantic solidarity.

His statement underlined the gravity of a situation which sent U. S. Ambassador Amory Houghton calling on Premier Felix Gaillard at 2 a. m. today and again at 7 a. m.

Pineau told the National Assembly Foreign Affairs Committee the French government formally requested the United States and Britain not to give arms to Tunisia.

France is afraid any arms received by Tunisia will be used to support the nationalist rebellion in neighboring Algeria. Tunisia said it needs arms to protect itself against French border incidents and said it would go to the Soviet Union if the West does not provide the arms.

Eisenhower Warns of High Price for Security

ly" the answer does not lie in cutting foreign aid spending. "There is a great deal to be spelled out," said Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.). He added: "There is still something lacking."

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said the second speech by the President was a "very good statement of our needs and what we all have to do." He said "we better get to it as quickly as possible."

Spur Science Education
The President said the "most critical" need of the nation is to produce more scientists to match Russia's superior output of highly trained technicians and engineers in the "age of the intercontinental ballistic missile."

Rep. John W. Heselton (R-Mass.) said he is drafting legislation to spur science education. He did not elaborate.

Dr. I. I. Rabi, head of the President's Scientific Advisory Committee, has proposed a federal inducement for students to take up science. It would give $500 scholarships to high school graduates who pass a national math test.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah) said the President was "realistic." He showed "we can't create scientists overnight by sticking great sums of money into a machine," Bennett said.

Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) stated Eisenhower said "a lot of things that a lot of us were saying when we were working on the last budget." He said the President "apparently now recognizes the fact that no matter how much we hate it, we're going to have to spend as much as takes to guarantee security."

Ike Pledges Economy
In the speech at Oklahoma City, the President pledged his administration not to waste "a dime" in the defense effort. But he said Americans "will not sacrifice security worshipping a balanced budget."

The Chief Executive expressed the hope that Russia ultimately would cooperate with the West in seeking "peace with justice." Until there is concrete evidence of such cooperation and a cessation of threats from the Communist orbit, he said this country would have to maintain a mighty nuclear retaliatory power "as a primary deterrent to war."

The President announced a four-part plan for increasing the retaliatory power of the Strategic Air Command:

—A speedup in dispersal of SAC to other bases.

—A speedup in improving warning systems protecting the nation, because "with missiles and faster bombers, warning times will grow shorter."

—Development of an active missile defense against missiles through "intensive research and development."

—The addition of long-range missiles to American forces on land and sea.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Harvey V. Higley resigned Wednesday as veterans administrator.

President Eisenhower said in accepting the resignation he did so with "reluctance and a very real sense of loss." He told Higley in a letter that he spoke for the nation in "expressing my sincere gratitude for a job well done."

Higley, a former Marinette, Wis., businessman, said in his letter of resignation he had requested release from his job orally Sept. 9. He asked that he be permitted to leave his VA post as early as convenient to the President.

Higley has served as head of the agency since 1953.

U. S. Jet Hits Dutch Barracks; Report 5 Dead

BUSSUM, Holland (UP) — A U. S. Air Force jet fighter plane crashed into a Dutch army barracks today.

First reports said five Dutch soldiers were killed and "scores" injured.

The reports said the American pilot parachuted to safety before the crash.

The plane involved was an F100C Super Sabrejet stationed at the U. S. air base at Soesterberg, Holland.

While in flight, it developed trouble a short distance from the airfield. The pilot, 1st Lt. Rink Abraham Mohammed, Southampton, N. Y., radioed he was bailing out.

He parachuted to safety in nearby Hilversum. His plane continued on for a few minutes without a pilot. It passed over densely populated areas and finally crashed on the barracks grounds.

The plane exploded and set two barracks buildings afire. Fierce flames hampered rescue efforts, and it took firemen more than an hour to put out the blaze. The victims were rushed to hospitals.

Otis Pinell, 63, Eldorado, Dies at Veterans Hospital

Otis Pinnell, 63, 1614 Newton street, Eldorado, died in the Veterans hospital at Marion, at 10 a. m. Wednesday. He was a veteran of World War I and a retired coal miner. He had been in the hospital for about a month.

Mr. Pinnell is survived by his wife, Maude; his daughter, Mrs. Judy Steinbrook, Eldorado, his stepson, Major Warren of St. Paul, Minn.; his brother, Walter Pinnell, Eldorado, and his sister, Mrs. Edna Ballard, Gladwin, Mich. There is one granddaughter, Connie Steinbrook, Eldorado.

The body will lie in state at the Martin funeral home in Eldorado and the funeral will be held in the chapel at 2 p. m. Saturday. Rev. Eddie Hatfield will officiate and burial will be in the Lindale Memorial Gardens. Mr. Pinnell was a member of the American Legion and the V. W. and full military rites will be observed.

America Is Living On Edge of Volcano, Billy Graham Says

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Evangelist Billy Graham warned Wednesday night that America is "living on the edge of a volcano" in "probably history's most dangerous hour."

Graham who was honored at a testimonial dinner and on the "This Is Your Life" television show, declared during his stay here that "America had better get on God's side and get there quick!"

Graham said he was taken by surprise by the TV show, which depicted his past life and called together relatives and friends. Several movie personalities, including Roy Rogers, Dale Evans, Jimmy Stewart and Carol Channing, attended the show.

GOP Wrecked Bipartisan Policy: Truman

NEW YORK (UP)—Former President Truman said Wednesday night "it's a little late" for the Eisenhower administration to start toward a bipartisan foreign policy. "The administration inherited a bipartisan policy and then threw it out the window," Truman told newsmen before a dinner at which he received the fourth annual Human Rights Award of the Joint Defense Appeal. "It's a little late to start now."

Asked how he felt about Adlai E. Stevenson's decision to discuss—but not formulate—a policy with the State Department, Truman said: "It's a choice a man has to make himself, and I'm very satisfied he can make a contribution and he will. He's a fine gentleman, and I like him."

He said neither he nor former Secretary of State Dean Acheson had been asked to consult with the administration.

Truman told the award dinner that he was more concerned with the extension of civil rights to all Americans than with catching up in the Sputnik race.

"Don't worry about the Sputniks," Truman told his listeners. "We can take care of that situation. Let's make sure we preserve the greatest inspiration we can give the world, the liberties and the rights we profess through one of the most wonderful documents in the world—the Constitution of the United States."

The JDA, fund-raising arm of the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, presented Truman with a bronze plaque.

Rites Held at Bethalto For Luther L. Black, Former Raleigh Resident

Luther Louie Black, 56, son of Mrs. Carrie Black and the late Charley Black of Raleigh, died of a heart attack on Nov. 8 in Bethalto. He is survived by his wife, Lizzie, his mother, and his brother, Edgar Black, in California.

The funeral was held in the Smith funeral home in Bethalto at 2:30 p. m. Monday. Rev. Kenneth Moore officiated and burial was in the Bethalto cemetery.

Mr. Black was born May 1, 1901, and was preceded in death by his sister, Edith.

William Tyler Page, former clerk of the U. S. House of Representatives, wrote the American Creed in 1917.

Tornadoes Hit Southern Areas

By United Press

Tornadoes swept from a line of squalls across the western Gulf region Wednesday night, and torrential rains threatened new flooding along the Gulf Coast.

A severe storm front battered sections of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas. At least one death was blamed on the storm.

Elsewhere, unstable weather conditions produced snow flurries at higher elevations in the northern and central Plateau and the Rockies, and rain and blinding fog in sections of the Midwest.

Several small but damaging twisters struck in Southwest and south central Louisiana. It was the second time in a week parts of Louisiana and Texas have been damaged by a barrage of late season tornadoes.

A Navy petty officer was killed near Newport, Ark., when his car collided with a truck during a driving rainstorm.

Weasel's Coat
Prized for centuries as royal raiment, ermine actually is the winter coat of the weasel, which turns from brown in summer to pure white in snow season, except for the jet-black end of its tail.

Corporal Freed By Court Martial

SEOUL, Korea (UP) — A U. S. Army court-martial today acquitted Cpl. Hugh L. Camp, St. Louis, Mo., of charges of voluntary manslaughter in the stabbing of another soldier.

Camp had contended he acted in self defense during a fight Oct. 20 in downtown Seoul with Pfc. Nicolas Garcia, Ulysses, Kan. Garcia was wounded fatally.

The trial opened Wednesday.

Resurface Track at Du Quoin Fairgrounds

DU QUOIN, Ill. (UP) — The track at the Du Quoin State Fairgrounds, home of the Hambletonian, is getting a new surface.

Grounds Supt. Norman Moody said 7,000 cubic yards of clay has been spread over the 80-foot wide, one mile oval where the Hambletonian was staged this year and will be run the next two years.

Moody said the 15-year-old track was "off" an average of 4 1/2 inches. The clay was obtained from the fairgrounds, once the site of strip mining operations.

W. Bain is pastor of the church. The evangelist is also a painter and will paint pictures during the services. There will be good singing each night and the public is invited to attend.

Operator of 3,000 Acre 'Ranch' Near W. Frankfort Has Non-Profit Activities

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (UPI)—Mike Drumsta, 47, left West Frankfort as a boy of 15. He didn't want to make his living in the coal pits. He's back now in his home town as a rancher, oilman, crop and tree farmer, steel salvage operator and purveyor of an assorted line of farm equipment.

"I've got some other ideas, too, but I'm not saying what they are," he says. "It's best to go ahead and do something and then tell about it."

Before Drumsta returned to West Frankfort in 1952, he operated a machine shop at 2530 S. Kedzie, Chicago, for 12 years.

But he decided he wanted to rear his family away from the big city and decided there was no place like home to do it.

A 30-mile, bridle path winds through the "Circle D" woodlands with Middlefork and Ewing creeks. Drumsta calls it the longest privately owned bridle path in the state and the only commercial one in southern Illinois.

The paths also act as firebreaks for his timberlands from which he

harvested some 700,000 board feet of lumber last year.

Of Drumsta's 3,000 acres roughly a third is under cultivation and the remainder is in pasture, hay and timber.

The Shell Oil Co. is nearing completion of an automatically controlled oil waterflood project on his land that will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Several non-profit activities have sprung up at the Circle D.

Art students make good use of the woodland scenery, and Drumsta has finished a two-mile cross country course for high school runners.

He has opened two lakes on his property to free public pole fishing in the summer and ice skating in the winter. Young foresters camp out at the ranch in observing Drumsta's farming techniques.

Drumsta believes that people in southern Illinois must work together to attract outside capital for industry, recreation, farming and cattle raising.

"We can't be individualists and get the job done," he said.

First Child Labor Law

Connecticut was the first state to pass a law affecting working children. In 1813, it required mill owners to have the children in their factories taught arithmetic, reading and writing.

McKee and Carney arrived at the chemical plant on the South Cornwall shore some 25 minutes later. Steven Task was conscious. The bullet Bob Brown had pumped into him had been extracted. With Steven Task in his office were the doctor, a nurse and the visitor from Washington whom Task had been expecting, Edmund Dirkson, one of the firm's vice-presidents. Dirkson was a tall, scholarly fellow as glum as an owl who had swallowed a brick.

Task had been shot through the left shoulder. The doctor said the bullet had taken an upward course.

"He's lucky. A couple of inches lower and to the left—"

Steven Task was weak from loss of blood and shock but he was able to talk. He corroborated the secretary's call. Bob Brown had shot him.

Carney didn't wait for more. Brown was gone, and so was his car. The police down the line were already alerted and he couldn't get off the Cape, but he had a gun. The doctor and the nurse followed Carney out, leaving Dirkson and McKee alone with Steven Task. Task refused to remain lying down, he sat in the chair usually reserved for visiting firemen.

Boiled down, the story was simple. Bob Brown couldn't live on his salary so he had put his hand in the till. The lab was working with the government on certain phases of biological warfare. Bob Brown had access to some top secret stuff, and he had taken advantage of it. He had been gotten at . . .

After McKee left Task the night before, Task had called Dirkson in Washington, and Dirkson got busy. He said that the idiots in their branch of security had had the report in their hands for weeks and were just beginning to get around to thinking of doing something about it. More than a month earlier the formula for a new and deadly compound that had been developed in the Coe and Bradford laboratories had been discovered in a certain section of Europe where it shouldn't have been.

Steven Task said, face and voice gray. "It's my fault. I knew Brown was gambling, and getting in pretty deep. I let things go too far—but I had no suspicion of what he was really at. Even now it's hard to believe . . ."

As far as that day went, when Brown came in Task had taxed him openly with what he had done. Bob Brown didn't expect it, it knocked him into a cocked hat. He didn't deny it; he was close to the desk and Task was at the window. Brown had pulled the desk drawer open and snatched up the gun that was kept there; there was a safe in the room. Brown said, "All right, you've got me, but you're not going to keep me, I'm never going to jail."

"I jumped him," Task said, taking a sip of the scotch Dirkson had poured. "We struggled for the gun and it went off. Bob didn't mean to shoot me. He's no killer. It was pure accident." He started to shrug and winced. "Bob was all right when he came to us, he was checked down to his socks—then the rot set in. I should have seen what was going on . . . I'm the one really responsible for that leak. I'm the one to blame, Dirkson. I'm offering my resignation, as of now." He was coldly bitter.

Dirkson told him not to be a fool. "Not your fault, old man, it's happening all the time, with all the projects. You're not to blame. You've got your own work . . ."

Task said simply "Actually, what Brown sold was a pup, they have something almost as good; but what we're developing now . . ."

The two men exchanged glances.

McKee broke in at that point. There were certain things that had to be established as soon as possible. Brown wasn't operating in a vacuum. "Who was Brown's contact up here, Mr. Task? Any ideas on that?"

Task frowned. "I can't tell you that, either. But have a look at it—"

—he and Crystabel Dolwin were pretty thick when she was at Saturday's school in July and August. You can't gamble without funds, and Bob was getting money from somewhere. If he was on the take, Melville could have found out about it and tried to cut himself in . . ."

McKee stretched out a hand for the phone. He called the farm house on Rand Road in which Crystabel Dolwin had a room. A man of Carney's had seen her home at two o'clock that morning. She hadn't stayed there.

Task was white around the gills. His wound was beginning to hurt.

Task said very little going back in the car. His chief anxiety was in the gun in Bob Brown's possession. It had been fully loaded and there were still five bullets left.

McKee was not so sanguine. Bob Brown wasn't stupid and the first thing he'd probably do when he put some distance between himself and the laboratory would be to ditch his own car and either try for another or go to ground some where until at least after dark.

Carlotta Task was waiting when they turned into the Task driveway. She was white and anxious;

Revenue Sources Discussed by School Commission

MARION, Ill. (UP) — A Pulaski county farmer told the Illinois School Problems Commission Wednesday that the state should do away with the property tax and pass a state income tax.

J. C. McCormick, Olmsted, said improvements have been made in the property tax but that it still is outmoded. "You can put pneumatic tires and aluminum siding on an ox cart to improve its appearance, but it still is an ox cart," McCormick said.

McKormick spoke on "Sources of Revenue" in a school finance discussion before the 17-member commission which met here.

D. M. Rutherford, Mount Vernon, a member of the finance committee of the Illinois Association of School Boards, said he was afraid the same inequalities would exist under a state income tax.

Gallatin County School Supt. Horace Brown said that "fear, complacency, taxes, transportation and lack of leadership" are deterrents to school reorganization in southern Illinois.

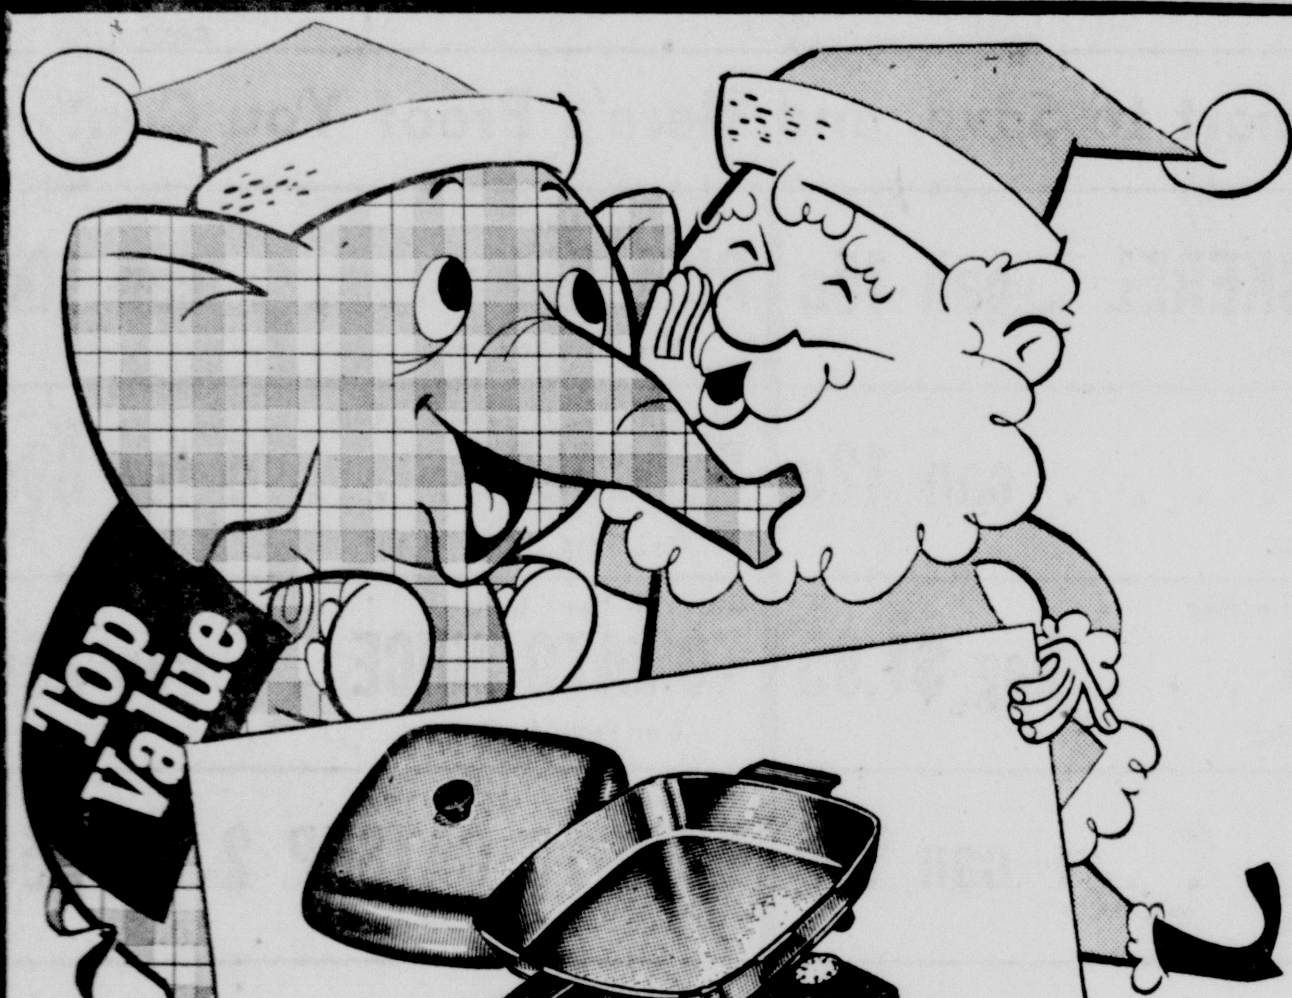

Another speaker, Dr. Harlan Beem of Southern Illinois University, said the state should provide more funds for educational research.

Rep. Charles W. Clabaugh of Champaign, commission chairman, said educators should be "more vocal" on school needs.

Miss Mulray had phoned her. Task got out unassisted. "Thanks, Inspector, I can manage." His wife threw her arms around him. "Steve! . . . When they first called I thought you were dead . . . Oh, my dear—"

FBI Misses Quiet Guy Who Made a Quiet Exit

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON — (NEA) — You generally read only about the bad guys in government who leave Washington riding a rail or in disgrace.

When the good guys bow out of government after years of faithful service, they usually go so quietly that outsiders seldom hear about it.

And that's the way it was when Louis B. Nichols walked out of his office as No. 3 man in the Federal Bureau of Investigation on a Friday afternoon, after 23 years on the job.

The only thing he took with him was a lot of memories and his FBI gold badge—well, it looks like gold though it doesn't say 14 carat any place. Usually an agent turns in his badge when he quits. But FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover had

Lou's badge mounted on a plaque and gave it to him.

Lou Nichols is only 51—which is pretty young for retiring. He is still healthy and hard—over six feet and over 200 pounds. But being on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week for 23 years finally got him.

IN FAIRNESS to his wife and his two sons and in fairness to himself, he thought he'd better get out before he was carried out. That's what government strain does to its executives who work at their jobs conscientiously, with never a thought nor a claim for overtime.

Lou Nichols never led any spectacular gun-smoke raids. But he has had a hand in almost every FBI case for two decades. He headed the largest department in the bureau. It included supervision over FBI's communications network and the largest criminal file in the world, with literally millions of records. Also, he handled FBI public relations—as a sideline.

He can recall Pearl Harbor day. He went right to his office as soon as he heard the news that Sunday afternoon, and he was there for three days and three nights straight.

He stood over teletype machines and dictated orders direct to the operators till the hundreds of Japanese, German and Italian agents—previously spotted and under observation—were all picked up and tucked away where they could do no harm.

HE CAN RECALL the Peter Weinberger kidnapping case on Long Island, on which he worked two days and two nights running J. Edgar Hoover and Associate Director Clyde Tolson were both away at the time and Lou Nichols was in charge.

He directed the investigation from Washington, supervising the checking of over a million pieces of criminal handwriting to identify Angelo La Marca as author of the ransom note.

Nichols put in many a night on the Victor Riesel case, trying to run down the acid throwers. Hoover and Tolson were away when the case broke, too, and again Nichols was acting director. This time he had a personal interest, working to avenge a blinded newspaperman friend.

There was always something like that coming up. It ruins family life and after a time it gets even the best of men.

That is, all excepting J. Edgar Hoover himself, whom the FBI men always refer to as "The Director." There have been rumors lately that he might be retiring one of these years.

HE WILL BE 63 on January 1. He has been in Department of Justice for 40 years and head of the FBI for 33.

But he'll never quit, says Lou He's single. The FBI is his family and his whole life. The only things that would ever make him think of retiring would be for some president or some attorney general to start using the FBI for political

Southern Illinois Keeps Pace with Nation in High School Training

By Dr. Clarence D. Samford
Chairman, Department of Secondary Education
Southern Illinois University

The comprehensive public high school as we know it today is of relatively recent origin. Three centuries ago, there was the Latin grammar school, where students were prepared for the ministry or teaching. Two centuries ago, the academy movement was ushered in. Academies attempted to adopt Benjamin Franklin's plan of teaching the "useful" subjects.

Now we are in the third period—the era of the public high school—which began with the establishment of "The English Classical High School" in Boston in 1821.

People generally have come to accept the philosophy that high school training is an essential part of common school education. They realize that young people need more and better education to cope with the complexities of a modern technological age. The perpetuation of democracy through enlightenment is no less important today than in previous decades. A higher degree of self-development is more likely to be attained with high school training.

Since 1890, the percentage of young people of high school age who have enrolled has increased steadily. The drop-out rate has decreased. The percentage who enter colleges and universities also has grown.

Southern Illinois has kept pace with the nation in providing suitable high school buildings and employing properly trained teachers. However, this area, like the rest of the nation, must answer a number of questions about high school programs and policies. A few of these questions are:

What shall we include as the real objectives of our high schools? What subjects shall we teach? Which are to be required for graduation?

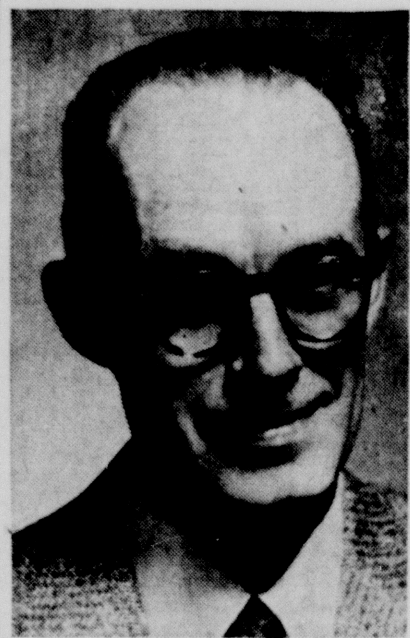

What is to be the nature of the so-called extra-curricular program? How much guidance and counseling shall we provide?

What emphasis shall we place on college preparatory work and vocational subjects?

Are science and mathematics properly emphasized and well taught?

How can interested citizens render effective and helpful service in an effort to improve their high schools?

We have done reasonably well in attempting to answer these questions, but we must be alert to opportunities for continued improvement.

Mayhew Monument, erected by Indians three centuries ago, is situated between Edgartown and West Tisbury on Martha's Vineyard Island, Mass.

Two from Saline County to Graduate As State Troopers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — J. L. Buford, superintendent of schools, Mt. Vernon, will deliver the principal address to a graduating class of 137 new state troopers in the Illinois Building, State Fair grounds, at 10 a. m. Friday, November 15. They are part of the additional 500 members of the state police requested by Governor William G. Straton as part of his highway safety program which the 1957 legislature authorized.

Captain Francis E. Piper, director of training, will be master of ceremonies. Among the other speakers will be Joseph D. Bibb, director of the Department of Public Safety, Fay R. Murdock, assistant director, and Chief William H. Morris.

The men are taking a three-week course in the State Police Training Academy. They will receive their active duty assignments November 14 and report for duty, Monday, November 18. Families of the troopers are invited to attend.

A new class of 94 trainees will report to the academy November 18.

The following are among those scheduled to graduate:

Humm Displays New 1958 Cadillac

The 1958 Cadillac with a new look of luxury, both inside and out, is now on display at the Humm Motor Company, Harrisburg dealer.

Accounting for the 1958 look are a new "going away" tail fin, four headlamp system, sweeping low lines, a different over-all profile and the finest interiors ever offered by Cadillac.

The big engineering news for Cadillac in 1958 involves suspension advances. These advances result in better and softer ride and improved control and handling.

Styling-wise, Cadillac presents a long, low sleek appearance. Responsible for this broad-shouldered, longer look are the unique new grille which is inset with jewel-like protrusions, a longer hood, wider and longer fenders, the addition of rear ventipane windows in four-door models and the new "going away" tail fin.

Again this year the Eldorado Biarritz convertible and Eldorado Seville Coupe retain their own distinctive styling, inside and out. The exterior differences result from the inward fin treatment of the rear quarter panel and the wrap-around three-section bumper. A new bumper bar is added to the 1958 Eldorados and vertical molding strips are included between the outer bumper sections and the middle portion which houses the license plate.

—A hood which is 5.3 inches longer than in 1957.

—Front fenders are both wider and longer and include a crown molding as well as a side molding. The fenders are wider to house the true four headlamp system, standard on all models. The four headlamp system was shown to the public for the first time on the Motorama Eldorado Brougham of 1955.

—The massive grille is typically Cadillac but includes a liberal sprinkling of jewel-like protrusions which command attention and underline the broad-shouldered look.

—The most significant change in the middle body portion of the 1958 Cadillac is the addition of manually operated rear ventipane windows in all four-door models other than the Series 75.

—The final touch to the 1958 silhouette is the distinctive tail fin. As on the Brougham this fin sets off the sweeping low lines and adds to the feeling of length.

Several refinements and changes are included in Cadillac's 1958 high compression V-8 engine. Two engines are available, a 335 horsepower version, standard in the Eldorado, and a 310 horsepower engine in the remainder of the line. The 335 horsepower "Q" engine is available as a customer option in the remainder of the line. It utilizes three two-barrel carburetors.

Michigan State
Tops Big Ten in
Offense, Defense

CHICAGO (AP) — Michigan State moved to the top of the Big Ten in both offense and defense today, with a slight edge over rivals Ohio State and Iowa.

Less than eight yards per game separate the three offensive leaders. Michigan State has covered 359.4 yards a game to 359 for Iowa and 351.6 for Ohio State.

In defense Michigan State has allowed its opponents 188 yards per game to 197 for Iowa, last week's top defensive club.

Randy Duncan, Iowa's sharp-shooting quarterback, took over the conference leadership in total offense with 659 yards gained in passing and running.

Duncan's 601 yards passing and 58 running gave him a wide edge over Ohio State's Don Clark, who has amassed 535 yards on the ground.

Clark remained the running leader and was far in front of his closest rival, Bob Mitchell of Illinois, who had 349 yards.

Jim Ninowski of Michigan State remained the passing leader with 27 completions in 44 tosses. End Jim Gibbons of Iowa was top receiver, catching 20 for 312 yards and three touchdowns.

Iowa's Mike Hagler led in pass interceptions with three and on kickoff returns with an average of 25 yards per carry.

Dick Larson of Minnesota was the best man on punt returns, bringing back four for an average of 35.2 yards. Frank Luksik, Wisconsin's fullback, led the punters with six kicks for an average of 43.8 yards.

No Tag of Bums for
Los Angeles Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Dodgers may have been known affectionately in Brooklyn as "the Bums" but in their new Los Angeles home that nickname will not be used by newspapers.

The newly-organized Los Angeles Chapter of the Baseball Writers of America today went on record as frowning on the use of the nickname "Bums" and voted to refer to the club only as the Dodgers.

Nearly three-fourths of Americans over 65 have either no income of their own or less than $1,000 annual income.

Matter of FACT

Roquefort, sometimes called the "king of cheese," was made as far back as 1070 A.D. at the monastery of Conques, France. By international copyright, the name cannot be used for similar types of cheese made elsewhere. The American product, "blue cheese," closely resembles Roquefort, which is sheep's milk cheese streaked with bread mold, while blue cheese is made from cows' milk. Blue cheese is cured in rooms where moisture and temperature are artificially controlled so that they are similar to conditions found in caves where Roquefort cheese is kept.

Looking at Sports

BY BILL MELTON

Eldorado civic leaders joined with other football fans and the ETHS faculty and student body Wednesday afternoon in a tremendous pep rally at the high school in tribute to the unbeaten, untied 1957 Eagles.

Eldorado capped a perfect nine-game schedule Monday afternoon with a 65-0 victory at Cairo, to give the high-scoring, defensive-minded Eagles just about every football honor available in southern Illinois.

The team rolled for 432 points during the season, the unofficial record for a season in Egypt, and allowed only 32 points, the best, or mightily close to the best, defensive record for this season.

It has been 33 years since Eldorado could celebrate an unbeaten season, and strangely enough, that perfect record of 1924 also followed a season that had only one defeat on the record. The 1923 Eldorado team lost once, suffering a 9-0 upset at the hands of Harrisburg at Old Miners Field. The 1956 Eldorado team also lost only once—that to Benton.

The 1924 team gained revenge on Harrisburg by taking a 10-0 decision in a game witnessed by about 5,000 fans in a game billed for the championship of Southern Illinois.

Going into that Thanksgiving Day game of 1924, both Eldorado and Harrisburg boasted perfect marks, and Eldorado stayed in the unbeaten ranks.

The starting lineups that day: Eldorado — Hammersley and King ends, Wiggins and Tison tackles, Stricklin and Hughes guards, Cash center, Gideumb, Burnett, Haile Bridenstine backs, Harrisburg — Pankey and McNab ends, Wilmoth and McDonald tackles, Cooley and Gullet guards, Raley center, Bond, Miller, Smith and Hunt backs.

Lester Feuquay

The current Eldorado team, in addition to breaking team scoring records, also had the top individual scorer in Lester Feuquay with 215 points.

Bernard Goodley

And although records are not kept for linemen, it should be mentioned that Bernard Goodley, a key man in the fine forward wall, move have set a scoring record for tackles.

Goodley scored nine points. His first point came on a "tackle around" for a PAT at McLeansboro. Against Metropolis he realized a lineman's dream by scooping up a fumble and racing for a TD, then came back later to block a punt for a safety and two additional points. All this was done from a tackle spot. He had another PAT, but while playing end against Benton.

There is an old saying that the "winners laugh and tell jokes..." and that certainly applied to the Eagles this year. They won, they laughed, they joked and worked hard. They were just as keen for contact in the last game as they had been early in September in pre-season practice.

In fact, it was this desire for contact that kept the team rolling.

Coach Al Adams commented time after time that the team was basically a defensive unit. "Our sharp blocking and tackling and ability to keep the opposition from retaining the ball is the secret to our success. In practice the boys literally wear out the blocking dummies. And they keep up the blocking during a game" Adams declared.

But despite this love of contact, the boys never got mean. Only once was a player kicked out of a game and he declared he slugged in self defense after being bitten.

At times members sported heavy beards, note Goodley's chin whiskers, and nearly everyone became a red head, strictly "out of a bottle." This caused confusion to a college scout who commented after the game at West Frankfort that he never did see the player's number he was interested in, but did notice he had hair of an unusual shade of red when he took off his helmet. The scout was puzzled when told everyone had red hair.

It was a good season and the seniors can look back on a trail of 17 wins and one defeat during their two years on the varsity.

And Mike McMahon, a junior who made the varsity as a sophomore, can look forward to maybe more of the same for the third consecutive year.

Five of the starting eleven at Cairo—end Tom Baugher, tackle McMahon, guard Dwight Laffoon, halfback Chuck McCallister and fullback Jack Fowler are underclassmen. And two other linemen—Ronnie Rains and Larry Hall—who were constantly pushing for a starting berth, also will be back for varsity action next season, along with other squad members.

Senior starters were center Fred Pool, guard Bob Holman, tackle Goodley, end and Co-Capt. Jim Woods, quarterback Carl Justice and halfback and Co-Capt. Feuquay.

Final GED Tests
At SIU Dec. 6-7

CARBONDALE, Ill.—For the last time this year, Tests of General Educational Development will be offered Dec. 6-7 at Southern Illinois University, according to Dr. Jack W. Graham, SIU testing supervisor.

Any Illinois adult desiring to take the tests to qualify for a high school diploma should bring a letter from his high school principal, Dr. Graham said. The letter should indicate that the school will grant a diploma if the tests are successfully completed.

GED tests are offered without charge at SIU the first Friday and Saturday of each month.

"JUST A LITTLE MORE EFFORT from each of us will make Elksdom's 90th Year its finest year," Grand Exalted Ruler H. L. Blackledge is telling a large and receptive group of Elks and their ladies at last night's banquet honoring Harrisburg lodge's 50th Anniversary. The Grand Exalted Ruler was greeted at a reception in the Elks Rathskeller at 6:30 last night, and was then principal speaker at the banquet at the country club, where his charm and

Delegations from Gallatin and Saline counties are being asked by the Saline Valley Development association to attend a meeting at the courthouse in Harrisburg to discuss area problems with U. S. Senator Paul Douglas.

Senator Douglas will be in Harrisburg at 10 a. m. Thursday, Nov. 21, to meet people from counties in this area relative to possible federal legislation that might help the economy of southeastern Illinois.

Members of the SVDA, composed of persons living in Saline and Gallatin counties, will be present in Harrisburg and all others desiring to attend are urged to be present. The SVDA recently was organized to try to do something about the sagging economy.

The board of governors of the SVDA will meet at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Nov. 19, in the Saline county courthouse to prepare for the visit of Senator Douglas.

Senator Douglas will be in Benton Nov. 20 and the SVDA is sending a group of delegates there to present the project of canalization of the Saline river to the senator.

Woman Bites Postman in Tussle

NEW YORK (UP)—Dog bites postman is pretty common these days but postman Leroy Hunter made the news with a new twist. He got bitten on his appointed rounds by an indignant woman.

Hunter charged in felony court Wednesday that Mrs. Gloria Rohan, 21, put the bite on his wrist in a tussle for her relief check. He had maintained the regulations required he put the check in her mailbox.

Despite defense attorney Benjamin Schmier's contention that Mrs. Rohan's false chop-choppers were "so poorly constructed they couldn't bite anyone," Magistrate Neal P. Bottiglieri ordered her held in $500 bail for trial on third degree assault charges.

Death Takes Mrs. Harry J. Bryant; Funeral Saturday

Mrs. Myrtle Bryant, 71, widow of Harry J. Bryant, 107 East Gaskins street, Harrisburg, died in her home at 5:15 p. m. Wednesday. She had been seriously ill for about a month. She was a retired nurse and was born at Karbers Ridge, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Newton Milligan. She was married to Henry Booten, who died in 1919, and was later married to Harry J. Bryant who died in 1954. She is survived by her daughters, Mrs. Charles (Opal) Duncan, Harrisburg, and Mrs. Wendell (Inez) Boyd, Del Ray Beach, Fla.; her brother, Ila Milligan, Carrier Mills, and her sisters, Mrs. Gerlie Ledbetter, Harrisburg, Mrs. Maude Partain, Detroit, Mich., and Mrs. Margaret Balthazar, Waukegan. There are three grand children surviving. She was preceded in death by her sister Mrs. Cora Stuby.

The body will lie in state at the Gaskins funeral home until the funeral at 2 p. m. Saturday, which will be held in the chapel there. Rev. J. W. Duke will officiate and burial will be in the Sunset Hill cemetery.

Mrs. Bryant was a member of the North Williford Baptist church.

Shawnee Hills Assn. to Elect Officers Monday Night at Golconda Meet

The second semi-annual meeting of the Shawnee Hills Recreation Association will be held Monday night at the VFW hall in Golconda with members of the Ladies Auxiliary serving the dinner at 6:30.

A nominating committee selected at last month's meeting is scheduled to present a slate of officers to serve during the ensuing year.

Glen Palmer, director of State Parks and Memorials is to be the principal speaker. Reservations for the dinner should be made with William Rottman of Golconda.

Seattle Homes Threatened by Sewer Cave-In

SEATTLE (UP)—Occupants of nine homes and a five-unit apartment moved out today when a huge sewer line cave-in began spreading and threatened to engulf homes in its path.

The original break in the 1600 block on Ravenna Boulevard occurred Tuesday and carved out a crater 60 feet wide and 40 feet deep that swallowed up a 25-foot chestnut tree and a light standard.

Additional cave-ins began shortly before midnight and by early today the pit was 200 feet long and 100 feet wide and had undermined parts of lawns on both sides of the boulevard.

The city engineer's office called out all available men in an effort to stop the spread of the cave-in.

Water backing up in drains caused evacuation of 10 buildings.

Heavy rains in the past few days have softened the earth, and increased the danger of further cave-ins, engineers said.

Raleigh Baptist Designated Rural Church of Year; Pastor Honored

The Raleigh Baptist church and its pastor, the Rev. C. E. Russell, received state achievement awards in a special ceremony at the Southern Baptist State convention, which was held at the First Baptist church at Pinckneyville, on Nov. 5, 6, 7.

The Raleigh Baptist church was designated state "Rural Church of Year" and its pastor, Rev. Russell, was named state "Rural Pastor of the Year."

The awards were presented by E. H. Moore, Secretary of Missions, and Walter H. Milfield, Rural and Village Missionary for the Illinois Associations. The Raleigh church received the district association award certificate a month ago at the annual meeting of the Saline Association.

District Associations represented in the state contest were from Indiana and Illinois. Rural churches are defined by the state group as those serving communities with population of 2500 or less.

Three phases of achievements on which the contest was based were "better church projects," "better community projects," and "better world projects." A chairman was selected for each project and work was begun in September 1956.

Huston Heathman was general chairman of the better church project. Accomplishments in this field included attaining "Advanced Standard Sunday School," the only one in the State of Illinois, and one of the only two in the entire Southern Baptist Convention. Mission gifts were increased from $1,388.09 for 1956 to $3,817.82 for 1957, a gain of $1,649.11 for 1957.

Better community projects phase was headed by Frank Cantrell. Accomplishments included church members being leaders of 4-H boys and girls. Members of church serving on town board. Chairman of building committee who led in the building of a new town hall in Raleigh is one of the church trustees.

Mrs. Pauline Farmer was in charge of the "better world projects" which included increase of Mission gifts to Foreign, Christian Education, Polio, Cancer, Heart, Salvation Army and Red Cross groups. The W. M. U. Brotherhood and W. C. T. U. from Raleigh church has conducted services in nursing homes, hospitals and contributed to disabled veterans.

The Raleigh church's membership totals 381. The Sunday school enrollment of 330 excels that of the 250 village population.

Ceiling Plans Scrapped Military Budget Will Boost Defense Spending About Billion

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Eisenhower administration has tentatively decided to boost defense spending about one billion dollars next year, it appeared today.

A highly-placed official said the military budget still is being drawn up. But he made it clear the administration has scrapped its plans for a 38-billion dollar ceiling on defense spending for the fiscal

Suit to Test Use Tax on Trade-Ins

CHICAGO (UP)—A group of Cook County car, airplane and farm implement dealers have filed suit challenging the legality of a new Illinois use-tax law on trade-ins.

The suit was filed by Walston Aviation Inc., Chicago. Dealers in other fields are parties to the suit as individuals.

In Springfield, the State Revenue Department said Wednesday that about $300,000 in use taxes on trade-ins has been paid under protest. The amount covers about two months under a regulation which permits taxpayers to start paying under protest about 30 days before the suit is filed.

The money paid under protest cannot be used by the state as it must be held in a protest fund pending settlement of the suit.

A spokesman for the Chicago Automobile Trade Assn. said most of its new car dealers are filing their tax returns under protest. He said the members hope the suit will correct differences between the old Illinois sales tax and the use tax.

Previously, dealers were required by the state to collect taxes only on the cash difference between list price and the trade-in discount. Under the new law, the dealer is required to collect taxes on the vehicle's full list price.

Raymond Beard, 43, Former Resident, Dies

Mr. and Mrs. John Boyett of Galatia have received word of the death of Raymond Beard, 43, former resident of Harrisburg, who died in Chicago.

The body will be returned to the Schroeder funeral home in Du Quoin Friday evening and funeral services will be held there Saturday.

Sees Sacrifice Of Less Essential Gov't Services

President Says Critical Need Is For More Scientists

By MERRIMAN SMITH
United Press White House Writer
WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower threw an explosive challenge to Congress today with his warning to Americans they must pay a "very considerable" price to neutralize Russia's missile threat including sacrifice of less essential government services.

The President returned to the capital early today from Oklahoma City where he told the nation in a second "chins up" radio and television address national security must always be "first of all firsts."

To achieve "adequate security" the President said more money must be poured into maintenance of the Strategic Air Command at peak nuclear-retaliatory strength, and into the nation's aerial defense system. He said the U. S. space program will involve additional expense and more must be spent on basic research and producing more scientists.

Although Eisenhower gave no idea of the exact additional cost involved, it appeared next year's defense spending budget may be hiked about one billion dollars to $39 billion. More discussion of this was expected during this morning's National Security Council meeting.

Curtail Other Spending
The big question he left hanging was where the money will come from. He made no mention of a tax increase.

He said it must come from large savings achieved "only through cutting out or deferring entire categories of activity."

Presumably the President will make recommendations to Congress on what should be junked. Possible targets which would stir up a stiff fight if curtailed include segments of the huge agriculture program, public works, housing and slum clearance and veterans benefits.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) cautioned against chopping domestic programs which produce "new wealth and new income." He disagreed with the President's statement that "most emphatical-

Philathea Class of McKinley Avenue Baptist Church Meets

The Philathea Sunday school class of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church, held a potluck meeting at 6 p. m. Tuesday in the church. The Thanksgiving theme was carried out.

Mrs. Ernestine Brinkley installed new officers as follows: Mrs. Roy Chambers, president; Mrs. Harlan Seats, vice-president; Mrs. Clifford Burklow, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. Harold Chaney and Mrs. Mable English, secretaries. The next meeting will be a Christmas party in the home of Mrs. Roy Chambers on Dec. 10.

In the installation service, Mrs. Brinkley read from John 20:21; Matthew 28:19-20 and Acts 1:1-8 for the scriptures on which her installation service was based.

Mrs. Clint Norman was a visitor at this meeting.

Mrs. James Ford Hostess To T.E.L. Sunday School Class

The T.E.L. Sunday school class of the McKinley Avenue Baptist church met in the home of Mrs. Charles Ford, 216 West Park street, Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ralph Burroughs presided and the meeting opened with a hymn. Mrs. Curt Gasaway led in the prayer. Mrs. Earl Hicks read the minutes of the previous meeting which were approved. Mrs. Paul Hilliard gave the devotion, reading from Psalm 46. The group planned a Thanksgiving basket to be given to a needy family, and an offering was taken for the Baptist orphanage at Carmi, to be used for the children at Christmas.

Mrs. Hicks was in charge of the recreation period and Mrs. Herbert Clark helped with the refreshments of banana nut cake with whipped cream, coffee and orange drink.

Others attending were: Mrs. George Langford, Mrs. Henry Short, Mrs. Webb Yarbrough, Mrs. Seth Rister, Mrs. Carvel Herron, and the guest, Mrs. Russell McElmurry. The meeting was closed with prayer.

The Christmas social meeting will be held Dec. 10 in the home of Mrs. Curt Gasaway.

Miss Linda Rude accompanied her mother, Mrs. Carl Rude, and Mrs. J. V. Capel to Selfridge Air Force Base, Michigan, Saturday, to visit Lt. and Mrs. Joseph Allard Rude and son, Carl William Rude. Miss Rude returned to Harrisburg by plane Monday and was met in Evansville, Ind., by her father. Mrs. Rude and Mrs. Capel returned to Harrisburg Tuesday.

Marion Lee Seats Married In Long Beach, California

Miss Nancy Lou Huston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Huston, Early, Iowa, and Harlan Lee Seats, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan B. Seats, Harrisburg, were married at 2 o'clock Sept. 14, in the chapel of the First Baptist church in Long Beach, Calif. The Rev. Frank Kepner performed the wedding ceremony before an altar decorated with large candelabras and vases of pink and white carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a wedding gown of blue lace fashioned with a scalloped neckline and fitted bodice, with a gathered bustle on the waltz length bouffant skirt. A white sequin pillbox hat secured her veil of illusion. Her strand of pearls was a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Lois Johnson, Long Beach, Calif., friend of the bride, served as her bridesmaid.

Jaimie Sarria, Bogota, Colombia friend of the bridegroom, acted as his best man.

Following the marriage ceremony there was a dinner in the Hawaiian restaurant of Long Beach for the wedding party.

The bride attended Iowa State college, the University of Arizona and received her B. E. degree from Buena Vista college of Storm Lake, Iowa. She taught second grade in the elementary school of Yuba, Calif., and is now teaching third grade in the Magnolia school district of Anaheim, Calif.

Mr. Seats was graduated from HTHS and was an all-star in football. He received his B. S. degree from SIU and was elected to Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. Before serving his two years in the U. S. Navy, he was employed by G. M. A. C. at Harrisburg. He was discharged from the Navy in August of this year. He is now employed by the Beckman Electronics Corp. in Anaheim.

Mr. and Mrs. Seats are at home to their friends at 111 West Broadway, Apt. 6, Anaheim, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Rush, their grandson, Bobby Cosby, and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Rush, all of Metropolitan visited Mrs. Claude L. Rew, 412 South Main street, Harrisburg, Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Oscar Rush is the sister of the late Claude L. Rew.

Michigan farmers receive most of their income from dairy products.

Alonzo Reiner, RFD 3, Harrisburg, who has been in Deaconess hospital in Evansville, Ind., for the past weeks, had expected to be home the first of this week, but underwent additional surgery on Monday and will be in the hospital for at least another week. His room number is 369.

Calendar Of Meetings

The Royal Daughters Sunday school class of the Social Brethren church has postponed its social meeting scheduled for Thursday and the meeting will be held at 7 p. m. Nov. 21.

Births

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wickham of Knoxville, Tenn., are parents of a boy born in a Knoxville hospital Tuesday. The baby has been named Houston Lee and weighed eight pounds, eight ounces at birth. The mother of the child is the former Miss Louise Dabney, daughter of Mrs. Ollie Dabney, formerly of Harrisburg and now living in Knoxville, and the late Con Dabney. The paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Corby Wickham of Harrisburg.

HTHS Students to Present Panel Over WSIL Tonight

The Harrisburg Township high school will present a student panel over Television Station WSIL tonight in observance of American Education Week.

The panel will carry out the theme of "A report on your high school." School authorities indicate that where most patrons are familiar with the extra-curricular activities of the school quite often they are not informed as to its curricular offerings—and how the school is meeting the educational needs of the high school boys and girls of this area.

Students who will appear on the panel are Eddie Quade, Carolyn Neff, Roger Wiley, Kendall McDonald, Michal Foster, Jane Capel, Janet Tanner, Mary Schwartz, Janet Hall, Bennie Lane and Mickey Stone. Eltis Henson, H. T. H. S. principal, will serve as moderator.

Mr. Henson also pointed out today that all patrons are invited to visit the school Monday, Nov. 18, at 7 p. m. when open house will be observed.

JUNIOR PLAY SCENE—Sherry Geltosky, Joe Gaul, Dewayne Martin and Connie Brown as they appear in a scene from "The Little Dog Laughed" which will be presented by the Junior class of HTHS Friday evening.

HTHS Juniors to Present Play 'The Little Dog Laughed'

The HTHS Junior play, "The Little Dog Laughed," will be presented in Bonnell gymnasium at 8:15 p. m. Friday. This play, by Vera and Ken Trapey, gives a humorous picture of what can happen when a college sophomore majoring in psychology decides to psychoanalyze and improve her family. There are hilarious situations—and well, come and see for yourself.

The cast for "The Little Dog Laughed" is as follows: Psychology major, Laurie Huntington, played by Sherry Geltosky; Sidney Huntington, by Jim Tanner; Martha Huntington, Kay Mitchell; Wally Huntington, Dewayne Martin; Miss "Gus", Sharon Evans; Joan Wood, Connie Brown; Ted Wood, David Nelson; Lillian Wood, Eva Duke; Mark Bradford, Joe Gaul; Horatio P. Honeywell.

Edward Winters; Amelia Dennis; Ann Goebel; Carolyn Blakesly; Roberta Steinborn; Grace Shoenbeck, Wilma Hamby; Walola Breckenridge, Joan Upchurch and Therese Brown, Janet Hall.

Plastic Bag in Tree Top Is from Scientific Project

Early Tuesday morning Virgil Tarlton, RFD 3, Harrisburg, saw an unusual looking object high in a tree on his farm and decided to investigate.

He decided it to be a plastic-type bag and chopped the tree down.

Inside the bag he found an envelope with the words "To Whom It May Concern" and inside the envelope was a paper with the following—"Notice—If found, please inform Paducah Junior College of the location where found. This is a scientific project conducted by three (3) chemistry and aeronautics students. Please inform where found by sending information to the Professor of Aeronautics and Wind Control, Paducah Junior College, 707 Broadway, Paducah, Kentucky. Sincerely Thanks, Signed, The Future Aeronautical Engineers of America." There were seven signatures.

Mr. Tarlton, who resides near Rudement, said the plastic bag was in the top of a 30-foot tree and he decided it would be much easier to chop the tree than to attempt to climb it.

He brought the letter to The Daily Register office Tuesday about noon before mailing it to the Paducah Junior College.

Knight's Decision

Gov. Goodwin J. Knight of California is above all things a practical politician. His withdrawal from the 1958 governorship race is a response to the hard realities he sees in his state.
To begin, the governor has evidently been under tremendous pressure from friends and party leaders to avoid a direct Republican primary clash next June with Sen. William F. Knowland, who is retiring from the Senate to seek the governor's chair.

There is sufficient strength on each side to have assured that such a head-on meeting would have been rough. Party men argued, with good point, that damage to the Republican cause might be great.

With the popular Democratic Attorney General Edmund (Pat) Brown in the lists against the winner, the risk of this intramural warfare looked too much to take.

Knight had other considerations.
Opinion samplings have suggested Knowland would beat him in a primary fight. A politician led by pride to battle against stiff handicaps can find defeat a poor balm for his soul.

The governor has often said he wanted to stay where he is rather than run for the Senate. But to any normal politician, the prospect of six years in the Senate is better than a return to private law practice. Knight may have measured the outlook in just that way.

If the poll indications were not enough, there was the fact that Vice President Nixon, who commands a powerful supporting group in southern California, was planning to put his weight behind Knowland.

California is not a machine politics state. A governor there does not automatically command a huge organization he can put to work in his behalf. Hence the expected Nixon opposition was a serious factor.

In the end, it must be said
Knight's decision occasioned no surprise. Politicians' first thoughts often are belligerent, suggesting
"no quarter." But when the test nears, they seek ways to avoid the scrap that can tear the party apart. Especially since their own political necks are involved.

The WASHINGTON
MERRY-GO-ROUND
by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Assistant President Sherman
Adams Is Expected To Bow Out; Sec Chairman Balks At Telling Congress About Sherman Adams; He Won't Even Loan Steno To Congressional Probe.

WASHINGTON — Don't be surprised if still another of the famed "Eisenhower team" steps out of harness in the not too distant future. He is "Assistant President" Sherman Adams, one of the most powerful men in Washington.
Adams is powerful because of Eisenhower absenteeism and delegation of authority. As a result, relations with Congress, contacts with every agency of government except the State Department operate through Adams.

Every cabinet member except John Foster Dulles is asked to stop in Adams' office after a talk with the President and dictate a memo regarding the points he took up with Ike and what was agreed to.
For, in the long run, it's Adams who carries out any commitments made by the President — or in some cases reverses presidential commitments.

The top assistant to any president is important, but never in the years I have covered Washington has any man been given such leeway in the White House as the dry, efficient, square-dancing ex-governor of New Hampshire.

However, Adams is now being made the scapegoat for missile-satellite failures, ha- rubbed Vice President Nixon the wrong way, and has pulled wires wholesale in the independent agencies. If the Moulder watchdog committee ever gets the files from these commissions, supposed to be quasi-judicial, independent agencies, it will be seen that, instead of answering the will of the people, they have been answering the will of Sherman Adams.

So, along with other members of the palace guard dominating the Washington scene for five years, the tight-lipped, efficient, square-dancing assistant president is expected to leave Washington quietly for the pine-forested hills of New Hampshire.

Note—It is rumored around the White House that Alger Chapman, a Dewey partner, will replace Adams. When contacted by this column, Chapman said no one around the White House had talked to him.

Edward N. Gadsby, the Boston lawyer who now heads the Securities and Exchange Commission, doesn't like to be investigated by Congress. His job is to investigate Wall Street, to see whether it's on the up-and-up. But he just doesn't like having Congress investigate him to see whether his commission's on the up-and-up.

When the Moulder committee tried to ascertain whether Secommissioners had received any favors from corporations they are supposed to regulate, Chairman Gadsby really reared back on his Back Bay dignity.

Joe Conlon, investigator for the Moulder watchdog committee, had previously asked Secommissioners for a list of correspondence between the SEC and the White House and with members of Congress.

He was looking, among other things, for the hand that rocks the SEC cradle—Sherman Adams. For in Washington it's said: "The Adams hand that rocks the cradle is mightier than the Eisenhower hand that wields the sword."

"May I ask you, sir, whether you prepared such a list?" Conlon asked.

"No," shrugged Gadsby.

"Do you intend to prepare such a list?" asked Conlon.
"No," replied Gadsby.

Noticing a stenographer busily taking notes, Conlon demanded:
"Is there a transcript of this meeting being taken?"

Gadsby replied "No," and the stenographer abruptly stopped writing.

"If there is," continued Conlon, "I would like a copy of the remarks made."

"There is no stenographer," repeated the SEC boss.

"Then may we have a stenographer?" suggested Conlon. "I would like a stenographer."

"We don't provide that sort of thing," barked Gadsby.

"With an appropriation of $300,- 000 I think they can provide their own stenographer," broke in SEC counsel Dan McCauley.

"Perhaps we should adjourn until I can get a stenographer, and we can meet tomorrow," offered Conlon.

"I don't know whether the commission will be willing to meet you tomorrow," snorted Gadsby.
"The commission is not going to submit to an inquisition."

STILL NO STENO

The House investigator went on with his questioning. Soon the stenographer started writing again.

"Sir," interrupted Conlon impatiently, "are notes being taken of this meeting?"

Gadsby signaled to the girl to stop writing.

"No," he replied again.

Finally, Conlon requested permission to examine the commissioners' official files.

"You're not going to see the letters to my wife!" bristled Gadsby.

"I don't want to see the letters to your wife," patiently explained the investigator. "I would like to see your correspondence to the executive and Congress relating to cases."

"You're not going to see my files!" repeated the SEC chairman. "I'm not going to show you anything!"

"Well, sir, what in your statutes gives you more right to withhold information than the CAB?" Conlon inquired.

"I'm not going to answer that!"
snapped Gadsby. That ended the meeting.

Note: Gadsby apparently figured he could get away with defying the committee because of his close friendship with the committee's senior Republican, Congressman John Heselton of Massachusetts.
The two were roommates at Amherst.

Burning Autumn
Leaves a Problem

CHICAGO (AP) — The aroma of burning autumn leaves may be pleasant, but it just adds to the air pollution problem.

This unromantic view comes from Samuel Padner, an Illinois Institute of Technology chemical engineer. But if you must burn leaves, Padner suggests the following ways to harness the added dust fall:

Burn only dry leaves. They give off less smoke.

Light the leaf pile near the top and shield it from the wind. This will make for slow, steady burning.

Don't rake leaves onto a burning pile. This smothers the flames.
A heavy smudge and bad odor is the result.

Take plenty of time to tend your fire. Make sure the fire doesn't spread to dry lawns and bushes.

Thunder Doesn't Sour Milk

Food Superstitions Disputed

By ALFRED LEECH
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO (AP) — Thunder won't really cause milk to sour, and the mere presence of a red-haired woman near a cheese vat won't hurt the cheese.

These and other food superstitions were disputed by Colonel Charles S. Lawrence, executive secretary of the Institute of Food Technologists.

"There's absolutely no rhyme or reason to some of these superstitions," Lawrence said, "but people still hold to them."

The thunder-milk idea apparently is related to the fact that warm, humid weather does increase the lactic bacteria in the air, he said, and this in turn will cause milk to sour if it is left in the open.

"But it's the lactic bacteria, not
the thunder," Lawrence said.

The cheese superstition still is prevalent in some sections of the South and along the Atlantic Seaboard, he said. According to the belief, if a red-haired woman tends the cheese vat, the curd will be "like loose sand and the cheese will be unfit to eat."

Along the coast of the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida and Texas, Lawrence said, many people believe that eating crabs and ice cream at the same meal is "about like taking strychnine."

Illinois motorists or vacationers from other states traveling through Illinois may be advised of weather and road conditions by dialing 9-2522, Springfield. A tape recorded voice will give them up-to-the-minute information.

Information on existing weather and road conditions is gathered from 14 locations throughout the state and radioed to the Springfield State Police headquarters where it is recorded.

The service is available 24 hours a day and fits in with Governor William G. Stratton's highway safety program.

While corn is still the king of Illinois crops, the newest member of the royal family, the soybean, is coming on with a rush. A recent bulletin issued by the State-Federal Crop Reporting Service discloses that Illinois soybean acreage topped the five million mark this year for the first time.

Illinois leads the nation in production and sales—with 30 per cent of the national soybean market. The report reveals that the state's soybean acreage has more than doubled since 1941, compared to only an 11 per cent upswing in corn acreage. Corn, of course, still maintains a big lead. It is grown on 85 per cent of Illinois farms, accounting for some 8.14 million acres valued at more than $800 million in 1956.

lar superstition about milk and shell fish of any kind.

"It probably got started because the fishermen felt that dairy foods were offering too much competition," Lawrence said.

"It's obviously ridiculous because many recipes call for cooking fish dishes in milk."

Bismarck, the iron chancellor of Germany, believed in a superstition that killed him. He thought that meat and brandy would cure the gout, despite the fact that meat is high in proteins and gout usually is caused by an overabundance of protein in the diet.

"Bismarck used to eat a pound and a half of sausage and drink a bottle of brandy," Lawrence said.
"Then his aching toes didn't ache.
"He was probably so soused he felt no pain."

Sahara Establishes Scholarship Through Mining Institute

At the time of the First World War, only a handful of Illinois farmers were growing soybeans—a meager one thousand acres. Today soybeans are grown on more than half of the state's farms and crops were worth more than $300 million last year. According to the Illinois Department of Agriculture, only a serious disease or insect epidemic will halt the phenomenal expansion.

Among the products made from soybean oil are shortening, salad oil, margarine, mayonnaise, cooking and drying oils, and a host of other products. Soybean meal is used in the manufacture of many animal feeds and foods for human consumption.

A four-year scholarship in mining engineering has been established at the University of Illinois through the Illinois Mining Institute by the Sahara Coal Co., Pres.
David D. Henry of the university announced today.

The scholarship will pay $500 a year, and the recipient will be selected by the university's scholarship committee. Preference in awarding the scholarship will be given, in order, to a son or relative of a Sahara Coal Co. employe, a resident of Saline county, a resident of Illinois, and a resident of any state in the Union.

The novel has flourished in America since the growth of the lending library and the emancipa-tion of women according to a

MORE THAN TWICE
AROUND THE WORLD

AND IT DROVE EVERY INCH OF THE WAY!

We knew this car was tough.

We designed it that way.

That's why we weren't afraid to give Plymouth the toughest, true test run of all time... with all America as the "track."

We didn't coddle this Plymouth. Didn't crate it and ship it carefully from place to place. Instead, we aimed it out of Los Angeles one misty morning and sent it through a course that ran 58,000 miles through 37 states.

The time limit? Only 58 days.

A thousand miles a day!

The equivalent of 6 years' driving crammed into little more than 8 weeks!

Three times this car crossed the Rockies. Three times it wound its way across the country... passing through more than 1200 cities and towns.
Whipping over turnpikes... creeping through city traffic... arrowing down super-highways... feeling its way through rutted detours. At the end, it still looked, ran and rode like new.

This is what lasting value really means. The ability to take everything that American roads and weather can dish out—and come up grinning.
Why don't you give Plymouth a test drive yourself—today? You'll see what we mean.

That's the Plymouth "track"... and just look at that route! Every possible road and weather condition. Plymouth ran every inch of that murderous route 3 times in just 58 days. What greater proof of lasting, built-in stamina!

Star of the Forward Look... Plymouth ahead for keeps!

Revenue Service To Question Expense Account

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Internal Revenue Service said today a new expense account question on income tax forms is a warning to all taxpayers—fat cats and thin.

It amounts to this: The government wants without fail detailed information on all expense accounts.

The Internal Revenue disclosed last week it has inserted the expense account item—line 6A—in the 1957 personal income tax planks—the ones that are due by next April 15.

It calls for stating on the front of the blank the size of any taxpayer's expense account—the amount if any he received from his employer for such diverse items as taxi fares and convention trips. A full itemized explanation must be attached as a separate sheet.

Earlier Forms Confusing

Confusion resulted from early interpretations. Whom does line 6A effect? Is the government opening an attack on expense accounts—considered by some as an escape loophole from high income taxes? Here, from top revenue officials, is the meaning of 6A:

—Internal Revenue is tightening its standing regulation that expense accounts must be declared.

—Line 6A is aimed primarily at taxpayers with bulgingly-suspicious expense accounts. But it also is aimed at the little guy with a $200 annual expense account that he never bothered to report.

—Everyone receiving an expense account, no matter how small, will have to keep a record of it and report it as they should have in the past.

Revenue officials said failure of many taxpayers to comply with standing regulations on expense accounts brought on line 6A.

Instructions for old tax forms said: Expense accounts receipts from employers should be added to wages; legitimate expenses for which the payments were made should be subtracted from wages; and the result should be entered as the taxpayer's income.

Some Didn't Bother

Revenue officials said many taxpayers whose receipts and allowable expenses cancelled each other simply skipped the whole thing.

Other taxpayers omitted the "detailed statements" or submitted sketchy ones.

Now at line 6A there is a blank space for entering allowable expenses. A "detailed explanation" must be attached. Money from expense accounts as usual is to be added to wages.

They said the average taxpayer

Proposes Christmas Of Satellite Coupled With Program of Aid

WASHINGTON (UP)—A noted rocket scientist proposed today that the American people launch a glowing satellite during the Christmas season as a "symbol of peace and good will."

The scientist, Dr. S. Fred Singer of the University of Maryland, made the proposal at a Rotary Club lunch here.

Singer said the Christmas satellite launching should be coupled with the launching of a new program of aid to underprivileged people all over the world.

Singer proposed that the American people contribute the money the satellite project would cost. He said a satellite, equipped to glow in the dark so all could see it, would cost no more than $2,000 and a rocket to launch it could be bought from the government for one million dollars.

has nothing to worry about, it is the man with the yacht for his personal use on his expense account that has to do the worrying.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

White stripes are often painted on the edges of steps in public buildings. These warning lines aid people in seeing each individual step and help to avoid stumbling downstairs. Many a person has been injured when he has not seen the last step, or the darkened step which looked so much like another step.

Such simple aids are developed at great expense in our country where we are safety conscious. Papers and magazines devote much space to the need of following codes of safe practices.

Yet in the spiritual realm we stumble through many darkened byways without a glance toward heaven. We commit errors and sins without so much as a regret. We do little to help others to avoid the pitfalls into which we have fallen. "Remember, the soul you're out to save may be your own."

Cub Pack 23 Holds Meeting

Cub Scout Pack 23, sponsored by the First Presbyterian church, had its regular monthly meeting Monday, Nov. 3, in the lower rooms of the First Presbyterian church. Den 1 presented the colors and gave a demonstration on folding the flag. Awards were then presented to the Cub Scouts for their advancement, after which Den 2 gave the Cub Scout promise, the law of the pack and the Cub Scout motto. The health achievement was presented by Den 5. A discussion on the achievement program of Cub Scouting was led by Mrs. Jerry Kladiwa.

Plans were made for the December pack meeting, which is to be a Christmas party with the whole pack furnishing a food basket to some needy family. Games were enjoyed by the Cub Scouts to close the meeting.

If any boy is interested in being a Cub Scout, or if any adult would like to work with the Cub Scout program, please call the First Presbyterian church.

Welcome Complaint

HARPER WOODS, Mich.—(UP)—During recent rains when he got 200 calls from taxpayers complaining about flooded basements, City Manager Robert J. McNutt got one call which brightened the day. It was from a home owner complaining about dust blowing in the alley behind his house on dry summer days.

RIDGWAY FHA HONORED THIRD YEAR IN ROW—For the third consecutive year the Ridgway Future Homemakers chapter has received the plaque awarded by the Illinois Bankers Association in recognition of being selected the most outstanding chapter in the section. There are eight counties and 23 chapters v. this, Section 2.

In making the presentation at the school Wednesday morning, Mr. Law said "The FHA chapter of the Ridgway high school has again lived up to its motto, which is 'Toward New Horizons,' and expresses the purpose of the organization—'Learning to live better today in order that our lives and those of our family may be better tomorrow'."

Joliet Man Heads Illinois School Building Group

SPRINGFIELD (UP)—John Moore, 44, a Joliet school official, has been named executive director of the Illinois School Building Commission, effective Friday, the office of the superintendent of public instruction announced here.

Moore is building coordinator for Joliet Elementary District 86, and has resigned, also effective Friday, to take the new post. He was appointed by the five-man commission, which is headed by George P. Lloyd, also of Joliet.

The school commission was set up to administer a 10-million-dollar revolving fund authorized by the 1957 Legislature to help elementary school districts which have exhausted their bonding power to build necessary schools.

Lacrosse, the oldest known game on the American continent, was invented by the Indians long before America was discovered by white men. For the Indians, who called the game "bagataway," it was more of a training exercise for battle than a game. Tribes played against each other for hours at a time, with hundreds of men on each side and a field often more than half a mile long. The French named it "Lacrosse" because the stick used in playing resembled a bishop's crozier.

Khrushchev Says U. S. Will Never Catch Up With Rocket Program

MOSCOW (AP)—Communist Party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev took his wife out for one of her rare public appearances Wednesday night and spent the evening making jibes at the West. He said it would be a long time before the West ever caught up on rocket development.

While Mrs. Khrushchev staved on the sidelines at an Egyptian embassy reception, a grinning and jocular Khrushchev twitted Western reporters about the United States lagging in the missile field and Britain taking a back seat in world politics.

The reception was for Egyptian Minister of War Maj. Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer but Khrushchev was the life of the party.

Khrushchev glibly told newsmen that the Soviet Union is well in advance of the United States in rocket development but he said Russia would be willing to agree with the United States that all the rockets of both countries "be sunk in the sea."

He was particularly playful with British reporters and told them "Britain doesn't have an independent foreign policy any more."

"In the Soviet Union we have Sputniks and in the West you have satellites," he said.

Asked whether he meant Britain was a satellite of the United States, Khrushchev replied: "Do you doubt it? Does Macmillan visit Eisenhower or does Eisenhower visit Macmillan?"

Mum On Zhukov Future

Khrushchev refused to be drawn out on what plans the government had for Marshal Georgi Zhukov who was ousted from the Presidency, the Central Committee and his post as defense minister but he did say Zhukov now is in Moscow "although he can go anywhere he likes."

He said the Soviet Union would always give Zhukov credit for his military prowess but "he didn't make out so well as a political figure."

Asked whether he would like to visit the United States, Khrushchev replied "I have been asked this question a million times. Whether I want to or not, I can't go as a private citizen."

But he said Russia would be glad to receive President Eisenhower and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles as "dear friends."

ALLEY OOP

BY V. T. HAMLIN

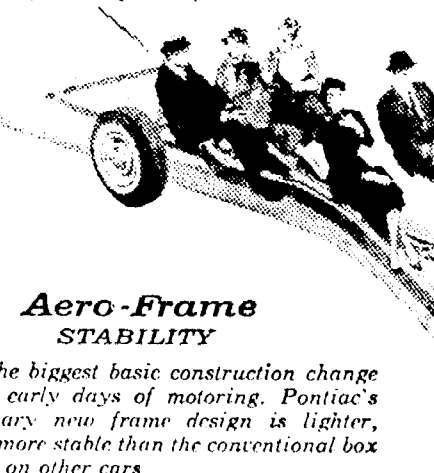

Let's Look!

Circles-of-Steel SAFETY

Pontiac's completely new body construction surrounds you and your passengers with girder steel protection—above, below, fore and aft. You drive with wonderful new peace of mind!

Aero-Frame STABILITY

Here is the biggest basic construction change since the early days of motoring. Pontiac's revolutionary new frame design is lighter, stronger, more stable than the conventional box type used on other cars.

Quadra-Poise ROADABILITY

Lean back and relax—only the wheels know where the bumps are! Pontiac's new chassis geometry ends dive, sway and bounce to bring you the smoothest ride, easiest handling you've ever known!

The Golden Jubilee Car

MAKE IT A SPECIAL POINT TO SEE THIS ONE!

The best ideas of the industry's hottest engineering team went into this Golden Jubilee Pontiac... newly created from the frame up to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of Pontiac and General Motors. The revolutionary advancements you see here mark a decisive break with the past... and conventional car design. Why not be among the first to drive the bold new Pontiac and discover a brilliant prophecy of the next big change in cars!

Ever-Level Air Ride*

The most perfect suspension system ever designed—and Pontiac's revolutionary Aero-Frame is specifically designed for it! Air cushions on all four wheels literally float you over the bumps... keep the car perfectly level regardless of load or road!

Tempest 395 PERFORMANCE

Try the jewel-like action response of Pontiac's brand-new engine! Scores of exclusive engineering innovations make this hefty power plant a miracle of smoothness... choose from four horsepower ratings—including Tri-Power Carburetion and Fuel Injection.*

New Direction STYLING

Here's a fresh new look in automobile styling—and only Pontiac has it! From classic grille to bold rear end, Pontiac makes a decisive break with the fads and frites! Despite its 4 1/2 inch lower silhouette, there's more room inside than ever!

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (CP)—Mike Drumsta, 47, left West Frankfort as a boy of 15. He didn't want to make his living in the coal pits. He's back now in his home town as a rancher, oilman, crop and tree farmer, steel salvage operator and purveyor of an assorted line of farm equipment.

"I've got some other ideas, too, but I'm not saying what they are," he says. "It's best to go ahead and do something and then tell about it."

Before Drumsta returned to West Frankfort in 1952, he operated a machine shop at 2530 S. Kedzie, Chicago, for 12 years.

But he decided he wanted to rear his family away from the big city and decided there was no place like home to do it.

Drumsta now has some 3,000 acres north of West Frankfort which he calls his "Circle D" ranch. He's recognized as one of the top tree farmers in Illinois.

A 30-mile bridge path winds through the "Circle D" woodlands with Middlefork and Ewing creeks. Drumsta calls it the longest privately owned bridge path in the state and the only commercial one in southern Illinois.

The paths also act as firebreaks for his timberlands from which he

harvested some 700,000 board feet of lumber last year.

Of Drumsta's 3,000 acres roughly a third is under cultivation and the remainder is in pasture, hay and timber.

The Shell Oil Co. is nearing completion of an automatically controlled oil waterflood project on his land that will cost hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Several non-profit activities have sprung up at the Circle D.

Art students make good use of the woodland scenery, and Drumsta has finished a two-mile cross country course for high school runners.

He has opened two lakes on his property to free public pole fishing in the summer and ice skating in the winter. Young foresters camp out at the ranch in observing Drumsta's farming techniques.

Drumsta believes that people in southern Illinois must work together to attract outside capital for industry, recreation, farming and cattle raising.

"We can't be individualists and get the job done," he said.

First Child Labor Law

Connecticut was the first state to pass a law affecting working children. In 1813, it required mill owners to have the children in their factories taught arithmetic, reading and writing.

Rains Hamper Salvage of Cars

SHAWNEETOWN, Ill. (UP) — Rains hampered salvage operators who are recovering 76 new Plymouth automobiles and a barge that sank near here.

Damage to the cars and the barge of the Commercial Barge Lines of Evansville, Ind., has been estimated at nearly $100,000 by a company spokesman.

The barge, one of three carrying 200 new cars from Evansville to Memphis, Tenn., sank late Friday in 14 feet of water in the Ohio River about five miles south of Shawneetown. There were no injuries.

The other two barges continued to Memphis with their cargo of cars and salvage operations with 15 men, including two divers, other barges and a huge crane began almost immediately.

The spokesman said it will take another week to recover the remaining cars and lift the barge unless the river rises.

Practical Nursing School Class Elects Officers

The second class of the Harrisburg School for Practical Nurses has met and organized for the school year, electing Mrs. Ella Mae Thompson, Harrisburg, vice president; Mrs. Gladys O'Connor, Harrisburg, secretary; Mrs. Sybil Winters, Harrisburg, reporter.

The members of the class recently made two field trips, visiting the Smith Packing Company and Pankey's Bakery, both of Harrisburg.

They were taken through both companies and given first hand demonstrations of the various operations.

Pankey's presented the group with a large cake, beautifully decorated in keeping with the class training, which later was served during a nutrition instruction period. Accompanying the students on the trips were Mrs. Shirley Oshel, R. N., coordinator of nurses, and Mrs. Marshall Coltrane, HTHS home economics instructor and nutrition instructor for the nursing classes.

Mrs. Ray Altire has joined the faculty for the teaching of first aid, it has been announced.

Pineau to Fly To U. S. On Crisis Over Tunisian Arms

PARIS (UP) — Foreign Minister Christian Pineau said today he would fly to Washington Friday to try to straighten out a crisis in Franco-American relations over U. S. arms to Tunisia.

Pineau warned that the supply of American arms to the one-time French protectorate would amount to a breach of Atlantic solidarity.

His statement underlined the gravity of a situation which sent U. S. Ambassador Amory Houghton calling on Premier Felix Gaillard at 2 a. m. today and again at 7 a. m.

Pineau told the National Assembly Foreign Affairs Committee the French government formally requested the United States and Britain not to give arms to Tunisia.

France is afraid any arms received by Tunisia will be used to support the nationalist rebellion in neighboring Algeria. Tunisia said it needs arms to protect itself against French border incidents and said it would go to the Soviet Union if the West does not provide the arms.

"There is a great deal to be spelled out," said Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.). He added: "There is still something lacking."

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) said the second speech by the President was a "very good statement of our needs and what we all have to do." He said "we better get to it as quickly as possible."

Spur Science Education

The President said the "most critical" need of the nation is to produce more scientists to match Russia's superior output of highly trained technicians and engineers in the "age of the intercontinental ballistic missile."

Rep. John W. Heseltin (R-Mass.) said he is drafting legislation to spur science education. He did not elaborate.

Dr. I. I. Rabi, head of the President's Scientific Advisory Committee, has proposed a federal inducement for students to take up science. It would give $500 scholarships to high school graduates who pass a national math test.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah) said the President was "realistic." He showed "we can't create scientists overnight by sticking great sums of money into a machine," Bennett said.

Sen. Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) stated Eisenhower said "a lot of things that a lot of us were saying when we were working on the last budget." He said the President "apparently now recognizes the fact that no matter how much we hate it, we're going to have to spend as much as it takes to guarantee security."

The Pledges Economy

In the speech at Oklahoma City, the President pledged his administration not to waste "a dime" in the defense effort. But he said Americans "will not sacrifice security worshipping a balanced budget."

The Chief Executive expressed the hope that Russia ultimately would cooperate with the West in seeking "peace with justice." Until there is concrete evidence of such cooperation and a cessation of threats from the Communist orbit, he said this country would have to maintain a mighty nuclear retaliatory power "as a primary deterrent to war."

The President announced a four part plan for increasing the retaliatory power of the Strategic Air Command:

—A speedup in dispersal of SAC to other bases.

—A speedup in improving warning systems protecting the nation, because "with missiles and faster bombers, warning times will grow shorter."

—Development of an active missile defense against missiles through "intensive research and development."

—The addition of long-range missiles to American forces on land and sea.

WASHINGTON (UP) — Harvey V. Higley resigned Wednesday as veterans administrator.

President Eisenhower said in accepting the resignation he did so with "reluctance and a very real sense of loss." He told Higley in a letter that he spoke for the nation in "expressing my sincere gratitude for a job well done."

Higley, a former Marinette, Wis., businessman, said in his letter of resignation he had requested release from his job orally Sept. 9. He asked that he be permitted to leave his VA post as early as convenient to the President.

Higley has served as head of the agency since 1953.

U. S. Jet Hits Dutch Barracks; Report 5 Dead

BUSSUM, Holland (UP) — A U. S. Air Force jet fighter plane crashed into a Dutch army barracks today.

First reports said five Dutch soldiers were killed and "scores" injured.

The reports said the American pilot parachuted to safety before the crash.

While in flight, it developed trouble a short distance from the airfield. The pilot, 1st Lt. Rizik Abraham Mohammed, Southampton, N. Y., radioed he was bailing out.

He parachuted to safety in nearby Hilversum. His plane continued on for a few minutes without a pilot. It passed over densely populated areas and finally crashed on the barracks grounds.

The plane exploded and set two barracks buildings afire. Fierce flames hampered rescue efforts, and it took firemen more than an hour to put out the blaze. The victims were rushed to hospitals.

Otis Pinnell, 63, Eldorado, Dies at Veterans Hospital

Otis Pinnell, 63, 1614 Newton street, Eldorado, died in the Veterans hospital at Marion, at 10 a. m. Wednesday. He was a veteran of World War I and a retired coal miner. He had been in the hospital for about a month.

Mr. Pinnell is survived by his wife, Maude; his daughter, Mrs. Judy Steinbrook, Eldorado, his stepson, Major Warren of St. Paul, Minn.; his brother, Walter Pinnell, Eldorado, and his sister, Mrs. Edna Ballard, Gladwin, Mich. There is one granddaughter, Connie Steinbrook, Eldorado.

The body will lie in state at the Martin funeral home in Eldorado and the funeral will be held in the chapel at 2 p. m. Saturday. Rev. Eddie Hatfield will officiate and burial will be in the Lindale Memorial Gardens. Mr. Pinnell was a member of the American Legion and the V. F. W. and full military rites will be observed.

America Is Living On Edge of Volcano, Billy Graham Says

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Evangelist Billy Graham warned Wednesday night that America is "living on the edge of a volcano" in "probably history's most dangerous hour."

Graham who was honored at a testimonial dinner and on the "This Is Your Life" television show, declared during his stay here that "America had better get on God's side and get there quick!"

Graham said he was taken by surprise by the TV show, which depicted his past life and called together relatives and friends. Several movie personalities, including Roy Rogers, Dale Evans, Jimmy Stewart and Carol Channing, attended the show.

GOP Wrecked Bipartisan Policy: Truman

NEW YORK (UP) — Former President Truman said Wednesday night "it's a little late" for the Eisenhower administration to start toward a bipartisan foreign policy.

"The administration inherited a bipartisan policy and then threw it out the window," Truman told newsmen before a dinner at which he received the fourth annual Human Rights Award of the Joint Defense Appeal. "It's a little late to start now."

Asked how he felt about Adlai E. Stevenson's agreement to discuss — but not formulate — policy with the State Department, Truman said: "It's a choice a man has to make himself, and I'm very satisfied he can make a contribution and he will. He's a fine gentleman, and I like him."

He said neither he nor former Secretary of State Dean Acheson had been asked to consult with the administration.

Truman told the award dinner that he was more concerned with the extension of civil rights to all Americans than with catching up in the Sputnik race.

"Don't worry about the Sputniks," Truman told his listeners. "We can take care of that situation. Let's make sure we preserve the greatest inspiration we can give the world, the liberties and the rights we profess through one of the most wonderful documents in the world — the Constitution of the United States."

The JDA, fund-raising arm of the American Jewish Committee and the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, presented Truman with a bronze plaque.

Rites Held at Bethalto For Luther L. Black, Former Raleigh Resident

Luther Louie Black, 56, son of Mrs. Carrie Black and the late Charley Black of Raleigh, died of a heart attack on Nov. 8 in Bethalto. He is survived by his wife, Lizzie, his mother, and his brother, Edgar Black, in California.

The funeral was held in the Smith funeral home in Bethalto at 2:30 p. m. Monday. Rev. Kenneth Moore officiated and burial was in the Bethalto cemetery.

Mr. Black was born May 1, 1901, and was preceded in death by his sister, Edith.

William Tyler Page, former clerk of the U. S. House of Representatives, wrote the American's Creed in 1917.

Tornadoes Hit Southern Areas

By United Press

Tornadoes swept from a line of squalls across the western Gulf region Wednesday night, and torrential rains threatened new flooding along the Gulf Coast.

A severe storm front battered sections of Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas. At least one death was blamed on the storm.

Elsewhere, unstable weather conditions produced snow flurries at higher elevations in the northern and central Plateau and the Rockies, and rain and blinding fog in sections of the Midwest.

Several small but damaging twisters struck in Southwest and south central Louisiana. It was the second time in a week parts of Louisiana and Texas have been damaged by a barrage of late season tornadoes.

Weathermen warned of possible flooding along the Red River at Alexandria, La., which suffered severe tornado damage last week.

McKee and Carney arrived at the chemical plant on the South Cornwall shore some 25 minutes later. Steven Task was conscious. The bullet Bob Brown had pumped into him had been extracted. With Steven Task in his office were the doctor, a nurse and the visitor from Washington whom Task had been expecting, Edmund Dirkson, one of the firm's vice presidents. Dirkson was a tall scholarly fellow as glum as an owl who had swallowed a brick.

Task had been shot through the left shoulder. The doctor said the bullet had taken an upward course

"He's lucky. A couple of inches lower and to the left—"
Steven Task was weak from loss of blood and shock but he was able to talk. He corroborated the secretary's call. Bob Brown had shot him.

Carney didn't wait for more. Brown was gone, and so was his car. The police down the line were already alerted and he couldn't get off the Cape but he had a gun. The doctor and the nurse followed Carney out, leaving Dirkson and McKee alone with Steven Task. Task refused to remain lying down, he sat in the chair usually reserved for visiting firemen.

Boiled down the story was simple Bob Brown couldn't live on his salary so he had put his hand in the till. The lab was working with the government on certain phases of biological warfare. Bob Brown had access to some top secret stuff, and he had taken advantage of it. He had been gotten at...

After McKee left Task the night before, Task had called Dirkson in Washington, and Dirkson got busy. He said that the idiots in their branch of security had had the report in their hands for weeks and were just beginning to get around to thinking of doing something about it. More than a month earlier the formula for a new and deadly compound that had been developed in the Coc and Bradford laboratories had been discovered in a certain section of Europe where it shouldn't have been. Steven Task said, face and voice gray. "It's my fault. I knew Brown was gambling, and getting in pretty deep. I let things go too far—but I had no suspicion of what he was really at. Even now it's hard to believe."

As far as that day went when Brown came in Task had taxed him openly with what he had done. Bob Brown didn't expect it, it knocked him into a cocked hat. He didn't deny it, he was close to the desk and Task was at the window. Brown had pulled the desk drawer open and snatched up the gun that was kept there. There was a safe in the room Brown said, "All right you've got me, but you're not going to keep me. I'm never going to jail."

"I jumped him," Task said, taking a sip of the scotch Dirkson had poured. "We struggled for the gun and it went off. Bob didn't mean to shoot me. He's no killer

It was pure accident." He started to shrug and winced. "Bob was all right when he came to us, he was checked down to his socks—then the rot set in. I should have seen what was going on... I'm the one really responsible for that leak. I'm the one to blame, Dirkson. I'm offering my resignation, as of now." He was coldly bitter. Dirkson told him not to be a fool. "Not your fault, old man, it's happening all the time, with all the projects. You're not to blame. You've got your own work."

Task said simply "Actually what Brown sold was a pup, they have something almost as good; but what we're developing now..." The two men exchanged glances. McKee broke in at that point. There were certain things that had to be established as soon as possible. Brown wasn't operating in a vacuum. "Who was Brown's contact up here, Mr Task? Any ideas on that?"

Task frowned. "I can't tell you that either. But have a look at it—He and Crystal Dolwin were pretty thick when she was at Sat-terlee's school in July and August. You can't gamble without funds, and Bob was getting money from somewhere. If he was on the take, Melville could have found out about it and tried to cut himself in."

McKee stretched out a hand for the phone. He called the farm house on Rand Road in which Crystal Dolwin had a room. A man of Carney's had seen her home at two o'clock that morning. She hadn't stayed there.

Task was white around the gills. His wound was beginning to hurt. Task said very little going back in the car. His chief anxiety was in the gun in Bob Brown's possession. It had been fully loaded and there were still five bullets left.

McKee was not so sanguine. Bob Brown wasn't stupid and the first thing he'd probably do when he put some distance between him self and the laboratory would be to ditch his own car and either try for another or go to ground some where until at least after dark.

Carlotta Task was waiting when they turned into the Task drive way. She was white and anxious;

Revenue Sources Discussed by School Commission

MARION, Ill. (U.P.)—A Pulaski county farmer told the Illinois School Problems Commission Wednesday that the state should do away with the property tax and pass a state income tax.

J. C. McCormick, Olmsted, said improvements have been made in the property tax but that it still is outmoded. "You can put pneumatic tires and aluminum siding on an ox cart to improve its appearance, but it still is an ox cart," McCormick said.

McCormick spoke on "Sources of Revenue" in a school finance discussion before the 17 member commission which met here.

D. M. Rutherford, Mount Vernon, a member of the finance committee of the Illinois Association of School Boards, said he was afraid the same inequalities would exist under a state income tax.

Gallatin County School Supt. Horace Brown said that "fear, complacency, taxes transportation and lack of leadership" are deterrents to school reorganization in southern Illinois.

Another speaker, Dr. Harlan Beem of Southern Illinois University, said the state should provide more funds for educational research.

Rep. Charles W. Clabaugh of Champaign, commission chairman, said educators should be "more vocal" on school needs.

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NFA) — You generally read only about the bad guys in government who leave Washington riding a rail or in disgrace.
When the good guys bow out of government after years of faithful service they usually go so quietly that outsiders seldom hear about it.
And that's the way it was when Louis B. Nichols walked out of his office as No. 3 man in the Federal Bureau of Investigation on a Friday afternoon after 23 years on the job.
The only thing he took with him was a lot of memories and his FBI gold badge—well, it looks like gold though it doesn't say 14 carat any place. Usually an agent turns in his badge when he quits. But FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover had Angelo La Malfa as author of the ran on note.

Nichols put in many a night on the victor Riesel case trying to run down the acid throwers. Hoover and Tolson were away when the case broke, too, and again Nichols was acting director. This time he had a personal interest, working to avenge a blinded newspaperman friend.
There was always something like that coming up. It ruins family life and after a time it gets even the best of men.
That is, all excepting J. Edgar Hoover himself, whom the FBI men always refer to as "The Director." There have been rumors lately that he might be retiring one of these years.
HE WILL BE 63 on January 1. He has been in Department of Justice for 40 years and head of the FBI for 33.
But he'll never quit, says Lou Nichols. The FBI is his family and his whole life. The only things that would ever make him think of retiring would be for some president or some attorney general to start using the FBI for political

ONE OF THE MOST distinctive features of the 1958 Cadillac—as shown on this Coupe De Ville—is the entirely new front end. It includes a newly designed, jewel-like grille, wider and longer fenders, the four headlamp system and a longer hood. The new Cadillac is now on display at Humm Motor Co., Harrisburg dealer.

Southern Illinois Keeps Pace with Nation in High School Training

By Dr. Clarence D. Samford
Chairman, Department of
Secondary Education
Southern Illinois University

The comprehensive public high school as we know it today is of relatively recent origin. Three centuries ago, there was the Latin grammar school, where students were prepared for the ministry or teaching. Two centuries ago, the academy movement was ushered in. Academies attempted to adopt Benjamin Franklin's plan of teaching the "useful" subjects.

Now we are in the third period—the era of the public high school—which began with the establishment of "The English Classical High School" in Boston in 1821.

People generally have come to accept the philosophy that high school training is an essential part of common school education. They realize that young people need more and better education to cope with the complexities of a modern technological age. The perpetuation of democracy through enlightenment is no less important today than in previous decades. A higher degree of self-development is more likely to be attained with high school training.

Since 1890, the percentage of young people of high school age who have enrolled has increased steadily. The drop-out rate has decreased. The percentage who enter colleges and universities also has grown.

Southern Illinois has kept pace with the nation in providing suitable high school buildings and employing properly trained teachers. However, this area, like the rest of the nation, must answer a number of questions about high school programs and policies. A few of these questions are:

What shall we include as the real objectives of our high schools?

What subjects shall we teach?

Which are to be required for graduation?

What is to be the nature of the so-called extra-curricular program?

How much guidance and counseling shall we provide?

What emphasis shall we place on college preparatory work and vocational subjects?

Are science and mathematics properly emphasized and well taught?

How can interested citizens render effective and helpful service in an effort to improve their high schools?

We have done reasonably well in attempting to answer these questions, but we must be alert to opportunities for continued improvement.

Mayhew Monument, erected by Indians three centuries ago, is situated between Edgartown and West Tisbury on Martha's Vineyard Island, Mass.

Two from Saline County to Graduate As State Troopers

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — J. L. Buford, superintendent of schools, Mt. Vernon, will deliver the principal address to a graduating class of 137 new state troopers in the Illinois Building, State Fair grounds, at 10 a. m. Friday, November 15. They are part of the additional 500 members of the state police requested by Governor William G. Stratton as part of his highway safety program which the 1957 legislature authorized.

Captain Francis E. Piper, director of training, will be master of ceremonies. Among the other speakers will be Joseph D. Bibb, director of the Department of Public Safety, Fay R. Murdock, assistant director, and Chief William H. Morris.

The men are taking a three-week course in the State Police Training Academy. They will receive their active duty assignments November 14 and report for duty, Monday, November 18. Families of the troopers are invited to attend.

A new class of 94 trainees will report to the academy November 18.

The following are among those scheduled to graduate:

From Saline county: Glendal G. Rockwell, Raleigh; William D. Sendage, Harrisburg.

Humm Displays New 1958 Cadillac

The 1958 Cadillac with a new look of luxury, both inside and out, is now on display at the Humm Motor Company, Harrisburg dealer.

Accounting for the 1958 look are a new "going away" tail fin, four headlamp system, sweeping low lines, a different over-all profile and the finest interiors ever offered by Cadillac.

The big engineering news for Cadillac in 1958 involves suspension advances. These advances result in better and softer ride and improved control and handling.

Styling-wise, Cadillac presents a long, low sleek appearance. Responsible for this broad-shouldered, longer look are the unique new grille which is inset with jewel-like protrusions, a longer hood, wider and longer fenders, the addition of rear ventipane windows in four-door models and the new "going away" tail fin.

Again this year the Eldorado Biarritz convertible and Eldorado Seville Coupe retain their own distinctive styling, inside and out. The exterior differences result from the inboard fin treatment of the rear quarter panel and the wrap-around three-section bumper. A new bumper bar is added to the 1958 Eldorados and vertical molding strips are included between the outer bumper sections and the middle portion which houses the license plate.

—A hood which is 5.3 inches longer than in 1957.

—Front fenders are both wider and longer and include a crown molding as well as a side molding. The fenders are wider to house the true four headlamp system standard on all models. The four headlamp system was shown to the public for the first time on the Motorama Eldorado Brougham of 1955.

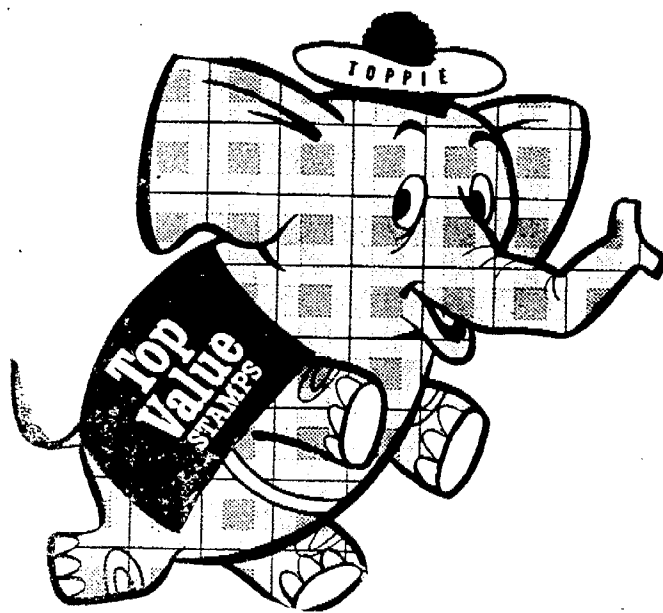

—The massive grille is typically Cadillac but includes a liberal sprinkling of jewel-like protrusions which command attention and underline the broad-shouldered look.

—The most significant change in the middle body portion of the 1958 Cadillac is the addition of manually operated rear ventipane windows in all four-door models other than the Series 75.

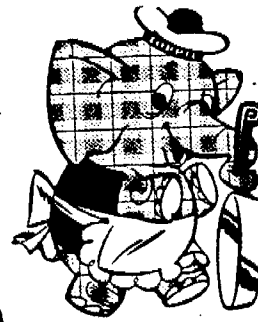

—The final touch to the 1958 silhouette is the distinctive tail fin. As on the Brougham this fin sets off the sweeping low lines and adds to the feeling of length.

Several refinements and changes are included in Cadillac's 1958 high compression V-8 engine. Two engines are available, a 335 horsepower version, standard in the Eldorado, and a 310 horsepower engine in the remainder of the line. The 335 horsepower "Q" engine is available as a customer option in the remainder of the line. It utilizes three two-barrel carburetors.

Michigan State
Tops Big Ten in Offense, Defense

CHICAGO — Michigan State moved to the top of the Big Ten in both offense and defense today, with a slight edge over rivals Ohio State and Iowa.

Less than eight yards per game separate the three offensive leaders. Michigan State has covered 359.4 yards a game to 359 for Iowa and 351.6 for Ohio State.

In defense Michigan State has allowed its opponents 188 yards per game to 197 for Iowa, last week's top defensive club.

Randy Duncan, Iowa's sharp-shooting quarterback, took over the conference leadership in total offense with 659 yards gained in passing and running.

Duncan's 601 yards passing and 58 running gave him a wide edge over Ohio State's Don Clark, who has amassed 535 yards on the ground.

Clark remained the running leader and was far in front of his closest rival, Bob Mitchell of Illinois, who had 349 yards.

Jim Ninowski of Michigan State remained the passing leader with 27 completions in 44 tosses. End Jim Gibbons of Iowa was top receiver, catching 20 for 312 yards and three touchdowns.

Iowa's Mike Hagler led in pass interceptions with three and on kickoff returns with an average of 25 yards per carry.

Dick Larson of Minnesota was the best man on punt returns, bringing back four for an average of 35.2 yards. Frank Luksik, Wisconsin's fullback, led the punters with six kicks for an average of 43.8 yards.

No Tag of Bums for
Los Angeles Dodgers

LOS ANGELES — The Dodgers may have been known affectionately in Brooklyn as "the Bums" but in their new Los Angeles home that nickname will not be used by newspapers.

The newly-organized Los Angeles Chapter of the Baseball Writers of America today went on record as frowning on the use of the nickname "Bums" and voted to refer to the club only as the Dodgers.

Nearly three-fourths of Americans over 65 have either no income of their own or less than $1,000 annual income.

Matter of FACT

Roquefort, sometimes called the "king of cheese," was made as far back as 1070 A.D. at the monastery of Conques, France. By international copyright, the name cannot be used for similar types of cheese made elsewhere. The American product, "blue cheese," closely resembles Roquefort, which is sheep's milk cheese streaked with bread mold, while blue cheese is made from cows' milk. Blue cheese is cured in rooms where moisture and temperature are artificially controlled so that they are similar to conditions found in caves where Roquefort cheese is kept.

Illinois' Youngest Sheriff To Make Congress Bid

OLNEY, Ill. (UP)—The youngest sheriff in Illinois is going to make a bid for Congress.

Richland County Sheriff George Shipley, 30, Olney, representative from the 23rd Congressional District in the April Primary.

Shipley, a Marine Corps veteran, was elected sheriff in 1954. Last year he was named as Olney's "outstanding young man."

Charles W. Vursell, Salem, a Republican, is representative from the 23rd District.

BY BILL MELTON

Eldorado civic leaders joined with other football fans and the ETHS faculty and student body Wednesday afternoon in a tremendous pep rally at the high school in tribute to the unbeaten, untied 1957 Eagles.

Eldorado capped a perfect nine-game schedule Monday afternoon with a 65-0 victory at Cairo, to give the high-scoring, defensive-minded Eagles just about every football honor available in southern Illinois.

The team rolled for 432 points during the season, the unofficial record for a season in Egypt, and allowed only 32 points, the best or mightiest close to the best, defensive record for this season.

It has been 33 years since Eldorado could celebrate an unbeaten season, and strangely enough, that perfect record of 1924 also followed a season that had only one defeat on the record. The 1923 Eldorado team lost once, suffering a 9-0 upset at the hands of Harrisburg at Old Miners Field. The 1956 Eldorado team also lost only once—that to Benton.

The 1924 team gained revenge on Harrisburg by taking a 10-0 decision in a game witnessed by about 5,000 fans in a game billed for the championship of Southern Illinois.

Going into that Thanksgiving Day game of 1924, both Eldorado and Harrisburg boasted perfect marks, and Eldorado stayed in the unbeaten ranks.

The starting lineups that day: Eldorado — Hammersley and King ends, Higgins and Tison tackles, Stricklin and Hughes guards, Cash center, Gideumb, Burnett, Haile Bridenstine backs; Harrisburg — Pankey and McNab ends, Wilmoth and McDonald tackles, Cooley and Gullet guards, Raley center, Bond, Miller, Smith and Hunt backs.

It was a good season and the seniors can look back on a trail of 17 wins and one defeat during their two years on the varsity.

And Mike McMahon, a junior who made the varsity as a sophomore, can look forward to maybe more of the same for the third consecutive year.

Five of the starting eleven at Cairo—end Tom Baugher, tackle McMahon, guard Dwight Laffoon, halfback Chuck McCallister and fullback Jack Fowler are underclassmen. And two other linemen — Ronnie Rains and Larry Hall—who were constantly pushing for a starting berth also will be back for varsity action next season, along with other squad members.

Senior starters were center Fred Pool, guard Bob Holman, tackle Goodley, end and Co-Capt. Jim Woods, quarterback Carl Justice and halfback and Co-Capt. Feuguay.

The current Eldorado team, in addition to breaking team scoring records, also had the top individual scorer in Lester Feuguay with 215 points.

There is an old saying that the "winners laugh and tell jokes..." and that certainly applied to the Eagles this year. They won, they laughed, they joked and worked hard. They were just as keen for contact in the last game as they had been early in September in pre-season practice.

In fact, it was this desire for contact that kept the team rolling Coach Al Adams commented time after time that the team was basically a defensive unit. "Our sharp blocking and tackling and ability to keep the opposition from retaining the ball is the secret to our success. In practice the boys literally wear out the blocking dummies. And they keep up the blocking during a game" Adams declared.

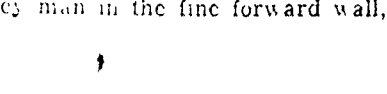

But despite this love of contact, the boys never got mean. Only once was a player kicked out of a game and he declared he slugged in self defense after being bitten.

At times members sported heavy beards, note Goodley's chin whiskers, and nearly everyone became a red head, strictly "out of a bottle." This caused confusion to a college scout who commented after the game at West Frankfort that he never did see the player's number he was interested in, but did notice he had hair of an unusual shade of red when he took off his helmet. The scout was puzzled when told everyone had red hair.

It was a good season and the seniors can look back on a trail of 17 wins and one defeat during their two years on the varsity.

Final GED Tests At SIU Dec. 6-7

CARBONDALE, Ill.—For the last time this year, Tests of General Educational Development will be offered Dec. 6-7 at Southern Illinois University, according to Dr. Jack W. Graham, SIU testing supervisor.

Any Illinois adult desiring to take the tests to qualify for a high school diploma should bring a letter from his high school principal, Dr. Graham said. The letter should indicate that the school will grant a diploma if the tests are successfully completed.

GED tests are offered without charge at SIU the first Friday and Saturday of each month.
